Tax Boost Here Seen in Two Years

Rapid Expansion of Five Utilities Said Responsible

Current rapid expansion of Edmonton's five civic utilities will bring a boost in taxes within two years.

This prospective blow to the taxpayer's pocket book was forecast last night by Commissioner D. B. Menzies in a speech to McDougall Church Men's Association.

Cost of financing essential expansion of the utilities—waterworks, electric light, telephones, transit system, and power plant—is now increasing more rapidly than the additional revenue the expansion brings in. Within two years city council will either have to raise consumer rates or subsidize them with a boost in taxes, he said.

WATERWORKS CITED

Waterworks expansion, for example, will cost about $2 million in 1950, and on a 30-year amortization basis, this will add $136,000 annually to the department's overhead.

During 1948, the five utilities turned $955,967 into the city's general revenues, or 12½ per cent of the total anticipated revenue, Mr. Menzies said.

Utilities revenue comparable to private companies' dividends to shareholders amounted to an estimated $360,000, which had the effect of keeping the mill rate down by approximately four mills.

$40,000,000 PLAN

A minimum program costing $40 millions faces the city during the next five years—all for what is considered absolutely essential works.

"Edmonton already has the second highest per capita debt of any large Canadian city, and future spending is going to aggravate that situation if necessary controls are not placed on non-essential building," he said.

ALL COSTS HIGHER

Mr. Menzies detailed major problems facing the city's utilities as:

1. Rapidly mounting wage costs, increasing pressure especially on ETS charges. In 1939 motormen,

Miners Won't Cross Picket Of Firebosses

LETHBRIDGE, Feb. 9.—(CP)—A majority of miners in six of nine Crow's Nest Pass coal mines today refused to cross a fire-bosses' picket line.

At the same time it appeared likely the strike, now in its 26th day, would spread to mines on the B.C. side of the pass.

It was the second major development in the strike of members of National Union of Firebosses (CCL), who want a non-contributory pension fund similar to that of coal miners.

Most miners at two underground mines at Coleman and a mine at Blairmore refused to cross the picket line after firebosses asked them to go home.

NO VIOLENCE

Miners crossed the line at the West Canadian Bellevue Mine, but refuse to at two other mines in the area.

No violence was reported. Firebosses, following a week-end meeting, decided to appeal personally to miners as they reported for work.

T. McCloy of Calgary, regional director of the CCL, said the meeting decided to continue the strike, which began Jan. 14, until operators sign an agreement along the lines of a recent arbitration-board award.

He said the issue is no longer based on the wage and welfare question, but on the "demonstrated antagonism" of the operators to the firebosses.

Officers Kill Seizure Plan

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Special to The Bulletin

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Western intelligence officers said tonight they had received reports that the Russians had ruled out a scheduled march by 500,000 Communist youths against West Berlin next May 28.

The reports said the Soviets decided against the march because violence seemed certain and it might involve Western and Russian troops in grave incidents of far-reaching consequences.

Soviet zone authorities had ordered the Communist police to prepare to take over all of Berlin at the time of the mass demonstration. Mayor Ernst Reuter of West Berlin said he would order his police to keep the Communist youths out.

Mine Strike Hearings End

By ROBERT E. LEE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The soft coal fact-finding board today abruptly ended its hearings, paving the way for President Truman to seek a court order to send striking miners back to work.

The board met briefly for 15 minutes and then said it felt nothing could be accomplished by long, drawn-out hearings.

It said it felt the best thing to do was to close the hearings and report speedily to the White House.

CUTS OFF DEBATE

Board chairman David L. Cole cut off debate and testimony. He told John L. Lewis and coal industry representatives who were present that they could file statements of their position by 1 p.m. EST.

The presidential board's urgency was reflected in the growing coal crisis throughout the nation.

Labor Imports Keeping City Men Idle Is Claim

Charges that indiscriminate importation of steelworkers to Edmonton from other cities was keeping local laborers unemployed was made by Herbert Turner of the Trades and Labor Council today.

Mr. Turner told the Bulletin that strong protests are being made by the council on behalf of local steel workers to contractors and steel firms.

He contended that while local men were idle contractors and steel firms were bringing in other steel workers to fill contracts from eastern Canada.

Winnipeg was named as one of the cities that was being milked of steel workers and being brought to Edmonton, Mr. Turner said.

A formal protest was going to the Dominion Bridge Co. for the alleged practice, stated Mr. Turner.

Mr. Turner would make no specific mention as to the number of workers being imported but conceded that a heavy building program set for this summer might "straighten the matter out."

"In the meantime local laborers are unemployed while outside workers are enjoying prosperity," he said.

Province's Gas Needs 2.75 Trillion Cubic Ft.

CALGARY, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Alberta's natural gas needs for the next 50 years were estimated at 2.784 trillion cubic feet by C. H. Sample, New York engineer. He testified this yesterday before the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board.

The board is hearing the application of Westcoast Transmission Company Ltd., for permission to export natural gas to the Pacific coast.

Earlier in the hearing witnesses estimated Alberta's total gas reserves at 7.5 trillion cubic feet, and said nearly six trillion cubic feet of this reserve is considered marketable.

Westcoast Transmission Company applying to the Conservation Board for a permit to export natural gas is attempting to prove sufficient gas exists in Alberta to supply the province's needs for 50 years and to provide a surplus for export for 30 years.

Mr. Sample was subjected to cross examination by L. H. Fenerty, representing city of Calgary and J. Harper Prowse, Liberal leader in Alberta Legislature.

EXPANSION ANTICIPATED

Mr. Sample said his estimates "should comply with the intent of the proviso that 50 years' requirements of consumers in Alberta be taken care of before permitting export of natural gas."

Any estimates, as to possible or potential future requirements outside the areas now served with natural gas or for large-scale in-

U.S. Railroad Strike OK'd

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(BUP)—Two unions representing 250,000 trainmen and conductors announced today that their members have voted to authorize a strike against the nation's railroads.

No strike date was set. Officials of the two unions said a date probably would be announced this week.

Results of the strike vote were announced by W. P. Kennedy, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and Harry Fraser, president of the Order of Railway Conductors.

They said 95 per cent of their members voted "to strike if necessary."

MONTREAL, Feb. 9—(CP)—Two men and a woman were killed at St. Martin, 15 miles from here, when their car collided with a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train at a level crossing early today.

Rescuers Near Party in North

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Feb. 9. — (CP) — A series of SOS signals giving a position 42 miles west southwest of Watson Lake, Y.T., picked up by a "ham" radio operator in South Dakota, today were reported to headquarters of the search for a missing C-54 transport.

Two doctors will drop from airplanes today to a Yukon mountain top to help injured members of the 10-man crew of a search plane which crashed there two days ago while hunting for a missing C-54 transport.

One of the doctors, W/C H. J. Bright of Edmonton, will be lowered by rope ladder from a helicopter. The other, Major Z. J. Baczeweski, USAAF, Conshohocken, Pa., will jump by parachute from a Dakota.

Three of the stranded men have limb fractures and are huddled in pup tents around the wreck of their search plane on the desolate mountain top, 7,000 feet up, far above the timber line.

The pup tents and half a cord of wood for fuel were dropped to the crash scene by planes from the RCAF's 435 Transport Squadron, based at Edmonton.

The helicopter carrying Dr. Bright took off from Whitehorse at two p.m. MST, and the Dakota followed a few minutes later. The crash scene is 84 miles northwest of here.

SCALING CRAGS

Meanwhile, a rescue team of Canadian and U.S. troops was gradually scaling the snow-covered crags near the wreck. The men were flown into Pon Lake yesterday, then fought their way through deep snow to the base of the mountain in snow-travelling Weasels last night.

Early today they bagan the ascent.

Canadian members of the rescue team, all attached to the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, based at Calgary, are: Lieut. A. M. Potts of Saskatoon; Capt. C. S. Bowlsky, RCAMC, Vancouver and Calgary; Cpl. A. D. Brown, Antler, Sask., L/Cpl C. Gibson, Lethbridge; Pte. L. G. Morrison, Winnipeg; Pte H. D. G. Jones, Victoria.

There are five or six Americans.

FOLLOW CREEK

To reach the Mountain the rescue party threaded its way along the Aishihik Creek bottom which is closed in by high cliffs.

The winterized vehicles, in the Yukon for exercise Sweetbriar starting next week, will go as far as possible up the mountain, then the troops will set out on snowshoes and skis, hauling sleds. They hoped to reach the stranded men in time to bring them out tonight. Officials said they might be evacuated by helicopter.

Their plane was searching for a U.S. Transport which vanished in the Yukon two weeks ago with 44 aboard.

Air Searchers Seek Miracle

Today is the 13th day of the great air search for the missing C54 American transport and searchers are hoping against hope for another miracle.

They recall the seeming miracle in the Attache search a year-and-a-half ago and wonder if it could happen again.

By the 13th day of that search, until now the greatest in Canadian history, almost all hope had been given up of finding the five Britishers and Americans lost on a trip from Churchill to The Pas, Man.

But some strange hunch that day made the search co-ordinator, Grp. Capt. Z. L. Leigh, issue a communique predicting the missing men would be found the same day.

They were.

An RCAF Lancaster found all five tramping through the northern Saskatchewan bush in a hopeless attempt to reach civilization.

It is the chance of another such miracle which keeps the aircraft still flying, men gladly risking their lives flying through the mountains which have already claimed two search aircraft.

Cold Coming, But Briefly

Another taste of winter is in store for residents of Edmonton and district—but it's only a temporary affair.

The weather office reported this morning that a cold mass from the Yukon is moving in a southeastern direction, and will bring falling temperatures throughout the day. However, the end of the cold mass is already in sight, and the weatherman is predicting milder temperatures for tomorrow.

The high in Edmonton yesterday was 27 above, occurring at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Temperatures remained mild throughout the night and had reached a low of one above by press time. They are expected to remain near zero this morning, dropping to 10 below by midnight. Estimated low tonight, 15 below.

Fuchs Has 'Naive Soul Of Child' Says Father

FRANKFURT, Feb. 9—(AP)—Klaus Fuchs, British atomic scientist arrested for passing atomic secrets to a foreign power, "has the brain of a giant, but the naive soul of a child," his father said today.

Interviewed by telephone, 75-year-old Professor Emil Fuchs said in a trembling voice:

"I am convinced my son is not guilty of the charges against him. I have never said that my son was a Communist. He was a freedom-loving opponent of Nazism."

Klaus Fuchs is due to go on trial in London tomorrow on two charges that he supplied Anglo-American atomic secrets to a foreign power in 1945 and 1947.

His aging father is a professor of theology at Leipzig University, deep in the Russian zone of Germany.

Professor Fuchs said he would like to intercede in his son's defence at tomorrow's trial.

"But you see I am helpless," he said.

"I should like so much to go to England to testify before the court on my son's record. Do you think anybody could help me?" he asked.

"The scientist, Professor Fuchs said, fled to Britain after a secret Nazi students' organization condemned him to death because he opposed Hitler."

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Experts in every phase of production, processing and marketing or barley and oil seeds will meet here Feb. 23-24 at the annual Canadian Barley and Oil Seeds Conference.

Game Official Calls for Ban

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Feb. 9—(CP)—Jack Clark, director of the Fish and Game association here, said last night that hunters now are in as much danger as ducks and geese. He advocated a closed season on rifles and aircraft in hunting migratory birds.

"If this trend to rifles and planes continues the man who comes home on foot with a goose will some day be entitled to a silver trophy," he told an executive meeting.

"There is no sport in shooting a sitting goose in such a manner, and the sooner it is banned the better."

He thought the practice arose from the success enjoyed in hunting coyotes from airplanes.

"These aerial nimrods have found a new hunting thrill which will soon make it unsafe for hunters to stalk the land."

Russ Aircraft Production Said to be Ahead of U.S.

By James J. Strebig

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—An American aviation expert said today Russia is ahead of the U.S. both in aircraft production and in the number of military planes in service.

However, said John F. Victory, executive secretary of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, the U.S. isn't disturbed by that situation because it feels it has better planes.

"We think we still have supremacy in the air," he said, 'because of the superior performance and military effectiveness of our aircraft."

Victory said in a prepared speech that neither the U.S. nor Russia has a practical military plane of supersonic speed. U.S. planes can go faster than sound now only when unarmed, he said, adding:

HARD-PRESSED

'We see ourselves in the position of a runner in a race who knows he is being hard pressed."

Victory was the first employe of the NACA when it was founded in 1915 as the country's chief agency for air research.

"The struggle for the survival of civilization now is under way in the research laboratories of our land," he said. "There the outcome of our present campaign to hold Communism in check and prevent another world war is being decided."

He said the atomic bomb "is solely an offensive weapon — of no value without a means of delivering it to its target."

"So," he added, "air power becomes the key to the problem of preserving our own security as well as preserving world peace."

That's one reason, he indicated, why Russian progress in developing a supersonic atom-carrying craft "is a secret on which our intelligence resources are concentrated."

Alta. Miners Sign Contract

CALGARY, Feb. 9—(CP)—A new working agreement, substantially a renewal of last year's, has been signed by the Wester Canada Bituminous Coal Operators' Association and district 18, United Mine Workers of America (CCL), both parties announced today in a statement.

The agreement covers 10 Alberta bituminous coal mines employing more than 5,000 men and producing more than 5,000,000 tons of coal a year. The new contract is for two years.

The joint statement said the new agreement contained minor changes in working conditions but the basis of settlement caused neither an increase in production costs for the coal operators of a decrease in the earning of the miners.

The Domestic Coal Operators' Association of western Canada, which employes about 4,500 men, still in negotiating with the union but wage talks have been adjourned until Monday.

Maher Wins Sask. Election

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Feb. 9—(CP)—H. James Maher, 39-year-old insurance and real estate dealer and former city alderman, successfully carried the Liberal banner yesterday through the Saskatchewan provincial by-election in The Battlefords.

His election was conceded at 10 p.m.* (MST) yesterday by Alex D. Connon, CCF candidate and Maher's nearest opponent in the three-way fight for the vacancy in the Legislature created last December by the death of Liberal Paul Prince.

With two remote polls to be heard from, the standings when the returning office closed down were: Maher 3,244; Connon 3,120; and Dave Thiessen, Progressive-Conservative, 373.

Polls still to be heard from are Heatherleigh and Hillside, traditional Liberal strongholds. Their returns will not likely be in until late today.

U.S. Writer Reports Red Artists Hindered

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Soviet writers, musicians, artists and scientists live well, so long as they consent to wear an intellectual straight jacket, an American reporter has found.

These intellectuals share the top rung of the social ladder with the leading politicians, says Edmund Stevens, who covered Moscow for the last three years for the Christian Science Monitor.

The artists, writers and scientists have cars. They have town flats in addition to country homes.

They do much better than doctors, lawyers or other professional men, who earn the ruble equivalent of $194 to $582 monthly.

But, Stevens reports, the pitfalls are many and the road is treacherous. Denouncing Americans is the surest key to literary success.

Konstantin Simonov, the author whose dramas belabor the United States incessantly, has an open bank account on which he can draw at will.

But as an example of what can happen, last March Tamara Motylova, leading Soviet female literary critic, was fired from Gorky institute's faculty and had her doctor's degree revoked. Her offence: She urged Soviet literature to be critical of Soviet surroundings, and she referred favorably to the German-Jewish author Lion Feuchtwagner.

Low Tariffs Stated Need

MONTREAL, Feb. 9—(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott said today he believes "the only appropriate policy for Canada with respect to traiffs and other trade barriers is to get them down to ressonable levels and keep them down, both here and abroad."

"This does not mean free trade in the classical sense, but it does mean freer trade," he said in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the Canadian section of the Intarnational Chamber of Commerce.

"I believe that the prosperity of Canada as well as other countries will be fostered, if by removing excessive trade barriers, countries will specialize in the production of the things they are good at and exchange them for the goods that other countries produce more cheaply."

Nod Is Still Refused Duchess By In-Laws

Exclusive to The Bulletin

LONDON, Feb. 9—(BUP)—Court circles said today that the Duchess of Windsor still was not acceptable to Queen Mother Mary and other members of the royal family.

A London columnist's report that the Duke of Windsor and his wife planned to set up housekeeping in England led to speculation that the 82-year-old Queen Mother ailing with sciatica may have decided to welcome the American divorcee into the royal family circle.

But a source close to Buchingham Palace said "there is nothing to suggest Queen Mary has changed and there is nothing to suggest that Queen Elizabeth has different ideas."

The source said Princess Elizabeth, who has a deep affection for the Duke of Windsor, undoubtedly felt the same way.

He said the Windsors could move their permanent home from Paris to England whenever they desired.

But he pointed out that on their last visit to London the duke left his wife in the automobile while he visited his mother and there had been no indication the Queen Mother's view toward the duke's wife had changed.

From Tampico, Mexico came word the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and their host, M. Murchison of Dallas, Tex., fished today on the Isle of Bulls, part of the extensive Murchison hacienda.

The pair, married in 1936, was taken to the island in the Gulf of Mexico yesterday by motor launch after four days of hunting in Murchison's game preserves. They will remain on the island two or three days.

Los Angeles Thugs Get $200,000 Gems

Two Gunmen Stage Holdup In Jewel Salesman's Home

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Authorities sought today two gunmen who robbed a jewelry salesman's apartment of diamonds valued at $200,000 retail after one of them posed as a Western Union messenger to get inside.

Salesman Milton Cohen, 35, said the loot was a recent consignment from his employers, the New York wholesale jewelry firm of H. Hamburger. It was completely insured and had a wholesale value in excess of $60,000, he said.

A man dressed as a messenger rang the Cohen's doorbell last night, he said, and told Mrs. Anne Cohen, 35, he had a special delivery package for which only her husband could sign.

Mrs. Cohen kept a chain latch on the door until her husband arrived to let the delivery man in. Once inside the door, however, the messenger pulled a pistol and herded the couple into the kitchen.

After the hold-up men escaped through the back door, Cohen called police.

He told officers that the conversation and actions of the marauders indicated they knew he kept large amounts of jewels in the apartment. The sample case was in the flat, Cohen said, because he had planned to start a sales trip through California early today.

Immigration Forms Problem

Problems and work of Zionist Histadru in post-war Israel were outlined last night by Dr. Joseph Burnstein, director of culture and education department, to a large audience at Talmud Torah Hall.

Dr. Burnstein is touring Canada to inform Jewish residents of Histadrut objectives.

He explained that one out of every three persons in Israel is a new immigrant and they have formed the most important problem in Histadrut affairs. Many immigrants from the camps of Europe and Asia are not of the laboring classes, but were formerly businessmen and shop owners. It is necessary for Histadrut to train these new citizens in trade schools and give special courses in the necessary vocations of the country.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Winter roared back yesterday on the U.S. weather scene, bringing lowest temperatures in more than a year to parts of New England and North Atlantic states, and heavy snow in the Great Lakes region. Mercury slid to 26 degrees below zero in Old Town, Me., and the icy blasts reached into New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Alberta's Gas Needs Cited

dustries not presently using natural gas, must be taken care of by additional discoveries," he said.

Mr. Fenerty asked if this did not mean that industries on the West Coast had been considered for supply on the basis of existing supplies in Alberta, while possible new industries in Alberta would have to depend on the finding of new reserves.

Mr. Sample said probable expansion in Alberta had been considered.

It was "not fair or necessary" to reach out for industries whose entry into the province was not established on any definite basis, he added.

PAST HAS TO BE GUIDE

He admitted in his report that the factors affecting future requirements could not be fully foreseen. Estimates had to be based on past experience and factors most readily forecast.

He noted that the Canadian Western Natural Gas Company which supplies southern Alberta, had no immediate prospect of new large industrial requirements.

In his survey Mr. Sample listed a number of Alberta towns and cities not now receiving natural gas which would be on the Westcoast pipeline or are adjacent to some field and thus had to be considered as potential users.

The delegation has looked at land there and studied the soil. "There is no such thing as buying land yet," he said.

Churchill Blasts Labor For Program

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Winston Churchill today blasted Britain's Labor government as an ungrateful Socialist regime kept alive by "dollops of dollars" from the capitalist United States. Meanwhile Prime Minister Attlee called Churchill's oratorical assaults upon him "wild, whirling words."

The Conservative leader warmed up the campaign for the general election Feb. 23 by holding out a promise of an early end to gasoline rationing if the Conservatives are victorious at the polls.

"They seek the dollars, they beg the dollars, they bluster for the dollars, they gobble the dollars, but in the whole of their 8,000-word manifesto they cannot say 'thank you' for the dollars."

LASHES BACK

Attlee, on a 34-speech, nine-day speaking tour, struck back in his quiet way. Speaking to an audience in the Birmingham district, Attlee said the Conservatives had put Churchill "on the leash" through its mild campaign pamphlet, "The Right Road for Britain."

But, he said, the wartime prime minister "slipped the collar" and attacked on his own.

Attlee recalled that Churchill once said the vehicle of state needed both engine and brake, and added: "The trouble is that the Conservative brake has always been on during these years. We have managed to keep ours off."

ANCIENT PRINTING press is one of many attractions in museum at St. Albert. Rev. Fr. Godbout examines press used by pioneer priests. Legend says Indians thought press had particular powers, never included it in raiding loot because they believed it would attack them.

History of Prairies Reflected in Museum

By Des Gilligan
Bulletin Staff Writer

Atop a knoll overlooking the valley at St. Albert is a small brick building that houses one of the largest collections of early Canadian relics in existence.

Inside the close fitting museum stands the first cathedral ever erected in this area. The church was built by Father Lacombe in 1861 and is constructed entirely of logs.

MANY OLD MEMENTOS

Walls of the chapel are lined with souvenirs of pioneer days, each item has a personal history; the bravery of a lay brother who was burned at the stake; a hatchet that split the skull of a young missionary; rifles loaned to St. Albert during the Riel rebellion; a bible that belonged to the great Father Lacombe.

The altar of the cathedral is the same today as it was in 1861 when Bishop Grandin said the first mass.

An 1890 typewriter that looks more like a surveyor's instrument of today is locked in one of the glass cases.

The ingenuity of the early missionaries is reflected in the hand-made plow blades and cooking utensils that are housed in the museum.

An 1870 hand press rests against the left wall of the church. The press was used by the pioneer priests to print bibles and make permanent records of their progress.

Legend has it that the Indians were so fascinated by this printing machine that they considered it a source of power for the priests, and never included it in their raiding loot for fear it would attack them.

BIRCH BARK ADDRESS

A chair constructed of buffalo horns rests in a corner of the sanctuary, the same place it occupied nearly 100 years ago.

Among the noted books in the museum library is a leather encased manuscript containing 150 interpretations of the Ave Maria.

Mine Safety Is Checked

Safety conditions in Alberta mines where firebosses are on strike are being maintained at their usual standard, John Crawford, director of mines, said today.

He was commenting on a reported protest from the Industrial Federation of Labor that safety inspection is inadequate in nine mines where firebosses went on strike several weeks ago.

Department of mines fieldmen make regular inspections of safety conditions, Mr. Crawford said, and reports received by the department from the fieldmen show safety procedure demanded by the Coal Mines Regulation Act is being properly carried out.

Stockyard Deliveries Set Record

Most Branches Show Increases In Past Year

to the Edmonton stockyards last year totalled $28,208,325, constituting a 12 per cent increase over the previous year.

More than 338,400 animals were traded on the Edmonton market. Bulk of these animals came from a district approximately 100 miles in radius, annual report of the yards reveals.

SHEEP DOWN

Only sheep showed an unfavorable comparison in trading last year. In 1948 there were 27,551 sheep marketed in Edmonton, while last year's trading totaled 27,020. While Edmonton shows a decline of slightly more than two per cent, the average Canadian decline was 23 per cent.

Hog marketings reached the highest increase last year with a 17 per cent climb in trading. There were 149,967 hogs traded on the Edmonton market during 1949.

A nine per cent increase in cattle receipts made 1948 a record year on this market. Total of $19,011,482 was received for cattle marketings.

Steers, heifers, cows and feeders all showed a definite increase.

General quality of all cattle remained the same as last year.

Calf marketings were nine per cent higher than last year. The calf market remained active throughout the year.

Stock Rates Battle Lost

Livestock associations lost their battle today for renewal of special low railway freight rates on pure-bred cattle.

The disclosure was made by James Paul, secretary of cattle, horse, sheep and swine breeders' organizations in the Edmonton area.

He said he had been advised of this by Canadian railway executives.

Livestock associations had received the support of the Western Canada Fairs' Association in their plea for renewal of the favored tariff on breeding animals.

CELEBRITY SERIES MAY SPONSOR HOPE

Possibility of Bob Hope, comedian, playing Edmonton in August under auspices of the Celebrity Concert Series was reported today.

It was reported Hope would begin an engagement at Regina on Aug. 21, going from there to Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Winnipeg.

It is believed major obstacle to the proposed tour at the moment is whether A. K. Gee, series president, can book arenas.

Hope's appearance would be on a basis of $10,000 or 60 per cent of the gate for one-night shows, same as was recently quoted for appearance at fairs.

Pensioner's Groceries Go Along With His Rum

The traditional "false friend" plot presented itself before Magistrate A. I. Millar in police court again this morning. This time the story involved one Frank Oakes, out-of-town lumber worker, who pleaded guilty to obtaining $3.97 from an old age pensioner by false pretenses.

He was given a 12 month suspension of sentence after previously being assessed a $20 fine on an intoxication charge.

Detective Frank Kingzett told the court that Oakes had met the old age pensioner in a downtown beer parlor and had offered to help the old fellow carry his parcels home.

On arrival the pensioner had offered a drink of rum by way of thanks.

"Well here's some money, go to the store and get some Coke," the pensioner said agreeably. "Fill this list of groceries while you're at it."

In court this morning Oakes admitted charging the groceries and pocketing the money and also to chalking up salmon, eggs and garlic sausage, which he subsequently took away with him.

In addition, evidence showed, he went back and drank the rum, after the pensioner had fallen asleep.

From his point of view, this last move was a mistake. It was the rum that led to his arrest when he appeared later on the street, well under the influence.

He returned the $3.97, court was told.

Dairying 16 Percent Of Income

Canada's dairy industry does $800,000,000 worth of business annually, forming 16 per cent of all farm income, President J. H. Duplan of the National Dairy Council of Canada, told Edmonton Rotarians today.

Canada produces 17,000,000,000 pounds of milk per year and there is a per capita consumption of 500 quarts each year. This great production comes from 4,000,000 dairy cows and is processed by 4,500 dairy plants, Mr. Duplan said.

Despite the vast proportions of the industry, profits to distributors are very small, averaging only one fifth of a cent per quart, Mr. Duplan said.

He warned against serious repercussions that might result from a drastic drop in dairy produce prices. Such a slash would mean many jobless Canadians, he said.

President J. A. Tupper of Edmonton Rotary club presided.

Heavy Slash By Margarine

Loss of some $46,000,000 to the dairy industry of Canada was recorded in the first full year since introduuction of butter substitute, J. H. Duplan stated in an address prepared for delivery to the concluding sessions of the Alberta Dairymen's Association convention today.

Mr. Duplan, from London, Ont., is president of the National Dairy Council of Canada.

Build Yellowhead Highway

Along with announcement of his decision that the Trans-Canada Highway will cross Alberta via the Kicking Horse Pass, Premier Ernest Manning stated that a trans-provincial highway through the Yellowhead Pass route is still a vital necessity in Alberta.

That is the truest statement the premier ever made and the February session of the legislature should be asked to vote money for the immediate construction of that highway.

Such a move would be no more than justice for the northern half of the province where expansion is taking place so rapidly and where the growing population will derive no possible benefit from the selection of the Kicking Horse Pass as the Trans-Canada route.

Premier Manning has said that British Columbia's and Saskatchewan's choice of the southerly route left him "no alternative" but to go along with their selection.

It seems strange that Alberta should be compelled to compound the stupidity of neighboring provinces.

For no matter what Saskatchewan and British Columbia say, the costs of construction and maintenance on the Yellowhead route are so much lower than similar costs on other routes and the advantages of the Yellowhead route from military, scenic and tourist standpoints are so immeasurably superior that it is difficult to see how Mr. Manning's impulse to conform can be justified.

The Kicking Horse route builds into the past where development and growth have come to a halt. The Yellowhead route builds into the future where development and growth will continue for a century or more.

And if the Yellowhead road is built, as the premier has inferentially promised, and if north-south feeder roads are constructed, every winter will see the diversion of traffic from the Kicking Horse road to the Yellowhead road as a matter of climatic necessity.

Selfish sectionalism cannot alter the facts of geography and climate.

Premier Manning has clearly admitted the urgent need for the Yellowhead road. He has tacitly implied the province's intention to build one.

The lively and growing half of the province can forgive this unfortunate choice only if the government is prepared to go ahead with a wide hard-surfaced Yellowhead highway with the least possible delay.

There is Both Surplus and Market

The policy of the Alberta government with regard to the export of natural gas is based on three essential requirements which must be satisfied before export is permitted.

1. It must be shown that a sufficient surplus exists to first fill the needs of domestic users.
2. It must be shown that a large enough market exists to make export profitable over a long term of years.
3. Canadian needs must be taken care of before foreign needs are supplied.

The application of the Westcoast Transmission Company to build an export pipeline through the Yellowhead Pass to Vancouver has obviously met each of these requirements.

Alberta's gas reserves have been positively shown to exceed seven and a half trillion cubic feet, more than enough to supply Alberta and Pacific Coast users for a long time to come.

Moreover a ready market for natural gas will encourage oil and gas exploration and doubtless increase this figure.

Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer of British Columbia has offered guarantees that will assure a perpetual market for Alberta natural gas in his province.

The application of Westcoast is the only application which will offer priority in the use of export gas to Canadians.

Alberta, then, is assured of a surplus, assured of a market and assured that Canadians will get first choice.

Quick Action Required in Strike

If the strike of firebosses in nine Alberta coal mines is jeopardizing the lives of the miners, it's time the government took action.

Firebosses, as a delegation from Industrial Federation of Labor explained to the provincial cabinet, are men who inspect safety facilities and while they are on strike this work is done by pit bosses and supervisors.

The delegation told the cabinet that consequently inspection was "entirely inadequate."

The firebosses are on strike in protest of employers' refusal to accept an arbitration board award granting them a non-contributory welfare fund.

The situation—along with similar situation in Calgary where tavern waiters are on strike because their employers would not accept arbitration board decision— reveals labor legislation needs more and stronger teeth.

There is something false about the present situation.

There are too many cases of both employers and employes refusing to accept arbitration board decisions.

If either party has the freedom to refuse to accept decisions, what is the point of arbitration? It's a waste of time and money.

The labor federation delegation which discussed the firebosses' strike with the cabinet suggested the government close the mines until the strike is settled, apparently as a means of protecting the miners.

It's a sad situation when you must take away one man's livelihood to protect his safety simply because two other parties cannot agree.

A more sensible method from the viewpoint of management and labor generally would be to make arbitration board findings more binding.

And if firebosses are custodians of the miners' safety, a parallel to police and firemen protecting the general public, their contracts should prevent them from striking if such action imperils the lives of others.

ODDS AND ENDS By Harold L. Weir

Department of Justice Autocratic and Unjust

This is not a political article because I don't write about politics in this space.

But my strong personal opinion is that the Honorable Stuart Garson, minister of justice, should resign.

He should resign because his department is openly contemptuous of public opinion and is guilty of two monstrous offences against justice.

WEIR

Last year a 16-year-old boy was sentenced to death in Alberta for murder.

Thousands of pleas for commutation were sent to Ottawa by individuals and organizations who argued, quite unanswerably, that a civilized society does not hang children.

The force of protest was so great and the projected execution of a youngster was so horrible to contemplate that it was a foregone conclusion that this boy would be reprieved by Ottawa.

But Mr. Garson's department kept this wretched child stewing in the death cell in mortal terror until two days before the scheduled hanging. The commutation was delayed until the terrified youngster could almost feel the rope about his neck.

Violent Protest

Moved to action by thousands of letters and telephone calls that poured in upon them in violent protest against this cruel and unnecessary delay in announcing a reprieve that everybody but the condemned boy knew was inevitable, newspapers all over Canada warmly deplored the dilatory action and warned the department, in the name of the Canadian people, that such a procedure would not be tolerated again.

But it has happened again.

On the 29th of last June, a 16-year-old boy named Alfred Childs shot and killed a farmer near Napanee, Ontario.

He was tried for murder, found guilty and sentenced to death on February 10.

Again the public and the press went into action, imploring the department of justice to issue an immediate decision on the boy's fate.

If he was to hang, they declared, the department should say so. If he was to be reprieved, the reprieve should be announced at once so that the condemned lad would not have to die nightly in anticipation of his dissolution at the end of a rope.

But the department of justice repeated its act of wanton savagery.

The reprieve, that everyone but Alfred Childs knew was coming, was delayed, in barbarous disregard for the most elementary demands of humanity, until seven days before the boy was to mount the gallows.

Repetition Intolerable

Now power is given to governments and parliaments to remove from this world those murderers whose continued existence is a menace to society.

But there is no individual or institution on earth that possesses the power to legally and justifiably inflict mental torture upon even the worst killer in the mistaken and horrible and vicious notion that society must be avenged.

That is why Mr. Garson's department has been guilty of two incredibly dreadful acts of omission.

And only three explanations are possible:

1. The delay in the Alfred Childs case was a deliberate challenge to public opinion, a stupid bureaucratic attempt to defy public sentiment and rebuke those who, in the bureaucratic conception, had been trying to interfere with the divine authority of a government department.

2. It was a lamentable piece of gross departmental inefficiency.

3. It was a brutal attempt to teach this boy a "lesson" by keeping him in fear and desperation until the last fatal hour.

Garson Is Responsible

If this delay was an act of defiance to public opinion, Mr. Garson should be reminded that this country is being run by the people of Canada and not by a group of autocrats in Ottawa and that Mr. Garson is not God but a public servant.

If it was the result of inefficiency, Mr. Garson is not a competent administrator and should be dismissed.

If it was for the purpose of punishing this unhappy child, Mr. Garson should be told that there is no room in the cabinet for a man who cannot distinguish between the functions of the courts and the functions of government.

When a department of justice ceases to be just, something drastic should be done about it.

If Mr. Garson is really running his department, he has been personally guilty of an act of atrocious cruelty.

If he is not running his department, he is sitting in the cabinet under false pretences and thus cheating the Canadian people.

Song Of Edmonton

Editor, Bulletin: There are many good song writers in Edmonton and a contest of Edmonton city songs would therefore seem in order. It would give Edmontonians an opportunity to pick and choose and cheer for their favorite city song.

It would also provide an outlet for the talents of city song writers. Many of Edmonton's composers are quite capable of producing fine songs. Their work is not known simply because, heretofore, there has been no opportunity for them to display the results of their talents. Most song writers spend considerable money trying to achieve something in the song-writing world, usually to no avail. Therefore if a first, second and third prize were offered by public spirited individuals or corporations, these awards would prove most heartening and encouraging.

After submission to a carefully chosen and impartial committee, those which remained in the finals might all be recorded in a pleasing voice to an equally good accompaniment. They might be used by the radio stations and the public be given their choice by vote.

Or the choice might be made by having them sung by a good artist at a public performance where the winning songs could be chosen by measuring the applause.

The admission charge might amount to enough to cover, with a good attendance, besides the expenses of the contest, a considerable amount to donate to the charity or charities which might agree to sponsor the occasion. And if programmes were issued, companies might be willing to place their ads on the pages and if enough were secured, the money obtained over and above the cost of the programmes, would also help pay for expenses, plus raising more funds for the sponsoring charity or charities.

It takes a national network to put over the usual popular song. No song can be put over without plugging even when it reaches the store counters because it is not known and therefore not in demand.

But it would take only the interest, backing and enthusiasm of local residents to help make city songs popular.

Why not give the song writers a chance to produce and the Edmonton public an opportunity to choose their city songs?

Against Centre

Editor, Bulletin — Before His Worship Mayor Parson leaves for Ottawa in order to obtain the federal government's approval for the town planning project, it would be advisable to consider the wisdom of the above plan.

Having been a resident of this neighborhood for nearly 24 years, I know every inch of it. Every lot is occupied with the exception of the big corner lot opposite the new administration building (which empty lot should provide parking space which would be needed).

The plan involves the wanton destruction of 62 houses and almost as many garages. These houses are all pre-war houses, very substantial and well built. I could write extensively on this last point but space does not permit it, although I hope a word to the wise is sufficient.

It is nothing short of sin to destroy property and to make homeless such a great number of people especially in this day of housing shortage and to uproot men, women and children to whom this district spells home. And may I repeat that this being an old neighborhood, each family or rooming house or club room (e.g. St. John's Ambulance, Alcoholics Anonymous, Art Studio, etc.) has made improvements and adjustments to suit its individual need and comfort.

If you must group most of the government buildings around the Parliament, you still can do so without tearing down anything. There is a lot of ground below the Parliament grounds (known as the gardens) above the river and the Fifth Street bridge as well as two very large unused spaces, one across the Curling Pavilion and one used as an experimental garden above the heating plant for the government buildings. Kindly examine the above mentioned and consider whether this suggestion would provide the needed space without inconveniencing anybody or shading the next block or expending so much money in buying out the built-up property or paying for the demolishing of it.

As a practical housewife, I would like to add that besides the actual destruction of houses, there would be also the great loss of fixtures and furniture which fit fine in one house but could not be used in a different one. Again I could write at length on this point but I said before, a word to the wise is sufficient.

R. C. Judges And Divorce

Editor, Bulletin.—The late Mr. Justice Beck was the national president of the Catholic Truth Society of Canada and was, at the same time, a member of the Supreme Court of Alberta. Part of his judgment in the case of Board vs. Board, 1918, 2 W.W.R. at Page 662, reads as follows:

"Now, as is well and generally known, I am a Catholic, and though I know of no reason why it is of consequence, a convert—of more than 30 years ago; and for nearly the whole of that period I have lived within what is now the jurisdiction of this court practicing my profession until my appointment to the bench of this court, where in the ordinary course of things, I may be expected to remain for some years to come.

"Observations of various persons occasioned by the raising of the question of the jurisdiction in divorce of the courts of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, as well as the remarks to which I have already alluded, have made it clear to me that the opinion commonly prevails, that, being a Catholic, I cannot with a good conscience take part in any divorce proceedings arising in this court. I do not know what foundation in fact there is for the suggestion that Davie, C. J. and McCreight, J. felt that they could not conscientiously do so; either there is a mistake in attributing that view to them or they had not sufficiently considered the question to lead them to the view which is well recognized by Catholic theologians. At all events, I cannot permit it to be supposed that in the event of my acting as judge in a divorce case, I shall be acting in any way with a bad or uneasy conscience. I accept absolutely without hesitation the doctrine of the Catholic Church with regard to faith and morals. I accept and fully recognize the obligations of conscience imposed upon me by the canon law of the Catholic Church. Yet, sitting as a judge in a court established by the authority of the state to administer the laws of the state, my duty is to find the true facts and to declare the civil law applicable to those facts."

Mr. Justice Beck was something of a theologian in his own right and moreover had consulted prominent canonists before writing the foregoing.

Current rumors and a recent editorial in the Edmonton Bulletin notwithstanding there has been no official pronouncement by Catholic authority which would cause a Catholic member of the supreme court of Alberta, or of any other court in Canada having jurisdiction over divorce, to dissent from Mr. Justice Beck's opinion. It is the duty of Catholic judges now, as it was in Judge Beck's day, "To find the true facts and to declare the civil law applicable to those facts."

THE QUESTION:

Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, claims Alberta is not properly promoting its resources. Do you agree?

THE ANSWERS:

William Herron, special constable, St. Albert: No. I think we are doing everything we can. We are experiencing a trend of development.

A. Lebelle, retired butcher, St. Albert: We're doing alright at the present time. But we can always do better. I think we are handling things pretty well.

Alex. Maillaux, retired farmer, St. Albert: No, particularly with oil. We are developing our oil resources as fully as we can.

H. Lamar, storekeeper, St. Albert: Yes. There have been too many instances where firms buy up property and neglect to develop it. When an option is taken, land should not be allowed to remain idle for long.

E. Perrault, miner, St. Albert: I think we should have more development in the province by local interests. Apart from that, we are doing things the right way.

It's the Same Old A-Bomb Scare Again

Now the Hydrogen Bomb has made its appearance we should begin to worry. Just imagine what would happen if you were hit by a bomb so powerful it would shatter the world.

Even at a conservative estimate, we are told it would splatter everything within a radius of 25 miles. It could apparently make a worse mess of our streets than can the ditching machines of the city engineer.

But suppose it will only obliterate a radius of 24 miles or 20 miles, or would one of these scientific gentlemen make a small wager it will put a crimp into a 10-mile zone. I don't know and I suggest these headline-grabbing experts don't know either.

There was a time when a scientist was supposed to be a cold, precise-thinking savant. Today, we seem to develop a type who puts a Holywood writer to shame when it comes to conjuring up dreadful imaginings. Some of these lads should try writing mystery thrillers.

If some of these 'learned' gentlemen were to be subjected to severe penalties for every statement they made which was not subsequently born out by the facts, we would witness a terrific amount of scurrying around to make retractions.

Shuddered Over A-Bomb Dangers

No one can doubt that the H-bomb is a dangerous weapon, or will be, if it is ever perfected. We already know the atom bomb is extremely dangerous. But the atom bomb as we know it today, is considerably different from the atom bomb that was described to us by 'scientists' in the days before it was being tested. The vapid sort of speculation we are hearing about the H-bomb today is probably as untrue as were the early reports on the atomic bomb.

You will remember the days when "scientists" shuddered over the dangers of the atomic bomb because the explosion of one bomb might start a chain reaction which would destroy the world. So far, it has only shaken the budget. We were warned the atomic bomb would completely obliterate everything in a wide area.

Then at the Bikini experiment a few of the test ships that were anchored near the centre of the zone were not even sunk and while some of the animals aboard were injured by radiation, they were not severely harmed by this frightful explosion. Hiroshima was badly hit, but, by no stretch of the imagination, was it obliterated. We were told there was no possible protection against the effects of the bomb, yet it appears that a number of methods are being considered.

None of this means that we can write off either bomb as insignificant, but we do know that we were swamped with a flood of 'scientific" nonsense about the atom bomb and it seems likely we are receiving another dose concerning the H-bomb.

Bogies Don't Win Wars

What can this loose talk accomplish? It certainly is not going to fool our enemies. Nations do not give way to bogies that easily. It can give people in many nations the jitters if they are permitted to hear these stories. That in turn makes it easier for war-winded leaders to obtain support for warlike ideas and plans against us. It can also give our people the jitters and this in turn could easily result in demands, such as we are already hearing, that there be an end to this armament business.

I believe we are fortunate to have these weapons on our side, because, in spite of many arguments, I believe that preparation is essential. But I also believe that we would be much better off to proceed with our preparations without all this loose talk.

If we develop a bomb that will do any of these things, it will be time enough then to issue warnings and explanations. But until the time comes when anyone can know anything about the H-bomb, it would seem these experts would do well to stick to their experting in silence.

Science as science is a blessing but scientific vaporing such as we have been hearing is sickening.

World Is Rushing Towards Suicide

One of the most curious features of these weird times is the apathy with which we greet the news that the human race is hell bent to commit suicide.

President Truman has given the go-ahead signal to make the hydrogen bomb. Scientists plainly tell us that the vital difference between the hydrogen or H-bomb and the now familiar atom bomb is that atomic power may be used either to help humanity or hurt humanity. It may be used, as at Hiroshima, to kill scores of thousands of citizens. Or it may be used to lift the burdens of all human beings who want "life more abundantly."

But the H-bomb is a hell-bomb—first, last and all the time a killer. It cannot be used for good.

Morons, Madmen

See then where the madmen and morons in control of the big powers are taking the human race.

The U.S.A. and Russia are engaged in the most colossal armament race of all history. Maybe I am wrong, but I cannot find a single instance in history where any such armament race ended in anything but war.

If the present armament race goes on, we shall get war. But we shall get war unlike any other war that ever yet took place. For, as the London Times solemnly concluded last week, every modern industrial nation now has the basic scientific knowledge and the machinery soon to make explosives able to destroy the entire earth.

To complete the picture of tolerated insanity we must remember the words of Dr. Brock Chisholm, the great Canadian who heads the World Health Organization. This great scientist asks, in bewilderment, why all the furore about bombs?

A jar of germs, no bigger than the quart of preserved raspberries on your kitchen shelf, contains enough killing agencies to wipe out the whole human race, says Chisholm. All great powers have such devices in storage. And there is no known real protection, says he.

Well Might The People Of every land on earth send up the prayer which the inspired seers of Biblical times predicted:

How long, O Lord, how long?

Well might the most brilliant of U.S. publicists address his flaming protest to his own government and every government on earth:

"Gentlemen, you are mad," Lewis Mumford wrote in 1946. Even a child should be able to see that in 1950.

Not all Black

The Picture Is By No Means all black, however.

Both sides had poison gas in World War Two and not even Hitler used it. Unfortunately, no moral, ethical restraints were responsible. Both sides knew that the minute one side used the gas against which there was no effective defense the other would retaliate. Both sides feared that national societies would literally dissolve.

As Major-General Fuller pointed out in 1945, use of the super-bombs would soon blast out of existence all existing national structures. International war would dissolve into universal civil war, chaos, anarchy.

There is not a government on earth—Stalin's, Truman's, or any other — which would willingly let that happen. Unfortunately, both Stalin and Truman are like drivers of heavy trucks speeding downhill towards mutual destruction. It is by no means certain that either driver has brakes strong enough to halt the rush towards disaster, or even to keep his truck on the road.

Wheat Sales Satisfactory, Board Says

CALGARY, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Dr. W. T. Grindley, commissioner of the Canadian wheat board, said here today "considering our available supplies, Canadian wheat and flour are selling well in the markets of the world."

Dr. Grindley said "it is true that exchange difficulties are hampering international trade in all basic commodities and we are facing rather severe competition in the sale of wheat from both the United States and Australia.

However, he said there was no cause for pessimism.

"We are holding our own and should dispose of the marketings from the 1949 crop before the next harvest, providing producers do not leave the balance of their deliveries until too late in the crop year.

MORE TO DELIVER

Dr. Grindley said that western producers still have about 60,000,000 bushels of wheat to deliver at country elevators between now and the end of July.

Dr. Grindley said the domestic and export demand in oats and barley had been generally satisfactory and the board is still selling these grains well above the initial prices, despite recent declines.

He said that he expected that producers would market this year about 80,000,000 bushels of oats and 55,000,000 bushels of barley. Supplies of flaxseed, which looked discouragingly large last fall "have been moving into consumption nicely," he said.

French Explore Antarctic Land

PARIS, Feb. 9—(Reuters) French explorers have hoisted their country's flag in Adelie Land, 1,600 miles south of Tasmania on the edge of the Antarctic continent, they announced by cable yesterday. Andre Liotard, leader of the expedition, cabled to Paris that 250 tons of stores have been landed from their ship, Commandant Charcot. The expedition will spend the Antarctic autumn and winter exploring the unknown interior of Adelie Land.

GERMAN ART STUDENT ADMITS LARGE HAUL

KIEL, Germany, Feb. 9.—(AP)—German officials announced today that a 25-year-old German art student has admitted acquiring illegally a number of famous paintings, valued unofficially at 100,000 marks ($23,800). The student, Horst Stark, was arrested last week after two suitcases with more than 1,500 pieces of art had been found in his room aand in a Kiel bank where he allegedly depsoited them.

Atom Talks In Britain Guarded

Extra Police Called As Top Scientists Start Conferences

Exclusive to the Bulletin

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(BUP)—Extra guards were thrown around Britain's great Harwell atomic research centre today as Canadian, British and American experts began a series of closed-door conferences on safeguarding their atomic secrets.

The three-power security conference opened on the eve of the scheduled court hearing Friday of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, 38, former head of theoretical research at Harwell on charges of revealing atomic information of value to an enemy.

FUCHS LISTED TO ATTEND

The brilliant, German-born Fuchs took part in two previous three-power atomic security conferences and would have attended today's meeting but for his arrest a week ago on a tip provided by the American FBI.

The last two conferences were in the United States in November, 1947, and at Harwell last September. When today's conference opened Fuchs was in Brixton prison. The charges against him could put him in prison for 14 years.

The HARWELL conferences are expected to last about four days.

SCIENTISTS GUARDED

Six American scientists, guarded by American plainclothesmen, arrived last night for the conferences. The American guards were supplemented by a British detachment which met them at Didcot station near Harwell.

The scientists were understood to be planning to discuss "classification" of atomic information. They will decide just what can be released to the public without endangering allied security.

HOW MUCH IS SECRET

Entering into their discussions were these two important factors:

1. The American decision to go ahead with the hydrogen bomb. The United States is believed ahead of Russia on this project and the experts will discuss measures to prevent publication of information that might help the Russians.

2. The fact that Russia has the atomic bomb, or at least has achieved an atomic explosion. This was not known at the time of the last three-power security conference.

The British have clammed up about the case of Dr. Fuchs.

Nobody in authority will discuss it. Most newspapers have ignored the case this week. When he was arrested, they printed stories about it. Some papers also carried stories under Washington datelines telling about the excitement the case caused in the United States. But now there is silence.

U.S. PROBE INDICATED

In Washington it was stated the Fuchs case may force a "complete" review by congress of Atomic Energy Commission security measures. Some senators said today they will raise the issue at the next atomic energy committee hearing.

Flood of U.S. Money to World Seen Only Way to Fight Reds

By Edward V. Roberts
Exclusive to the Bulletin

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(BUP)—Informed U.S. officials are making forecasts of a greatly prolonged cold war, which will cost American taxpayers billions and billions of dollars.

They do not expect the Soviet to agree to any genuine workable international control of atomic energy and the hydrogen bomb until the free world can convince Moscow that the Kremlin's dream of world domination cannot be fulfilled.

These officials say the end of the struggle against world communism is not in sight.

They fear the United States may not be able to accomplish its goal of reducing overseas economic and military aid.

All of them, in fact, fear that before the cold war ends U. S. expenditure abroad will dwarf by many billions the $23,000,000,000 spent or earmarked for the European Recovery Program. But the sum, they said, would be much less than the cost of another world war.

MORE RED CONQUESTS

Hard-headed realists seeking to plot the fate of American foreign policy do not rule out the possibility of further communist conquest of vast areas in the far east.

They look for increased Communist pressures on the Near and Middle East and Africa.

It was understood that all of these grim possibilities were reflected in Secretary Acheson's grave statement yesterday. He warned that there was no easy road to agreements with Russia.

RUSSIAN EXPLOITATION

He said the war left the world filled with "situations of weakness" and Russia has tried to exploit each one to its advantage. Communism has been stemmed, he added, only where the United States has been able to "change those situations of weakness."

The "changing" of these "situations of weakness," he said, was the basis of American policy in the struggle with Soviet Communism and must continue to be so.

He urged the American people to remain calm and to "never doubt the possibility" of achieving world peace through this policy.

STRENGTHENED AREAS

Acheson said the United States had "changed situations of weakness" in Western Germany, Western Europe, Greece and Turkey, but had failed to affect such a "change" in China.

Officials said U.S. goals in southeast Asia currently are to affect a "change." They acknowledged that the outcome still is in serious doubt.

A factor has been the failure to find any alternate means of combatting Communism tactics as effective as the simple process of pouring huge amounts of economic and military aid into the area in question as has been done in Western Europe, Greece and Turkey.

U.K. Recovery Tops World, Attlee Says

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Britain's key election personalities squared off today in major speeches stressing the gap between socialism and conservatism.

With only 15 talking days to go before the Feb. 23 general election, Prime Minister Attlee proudly claimed that Britain leads the world in recovery, and gave socialist policies all credit.

Conservative leader Winston Churchill zestfully assailed labor's moral philosophies and called government planning "a florid failure."

Attlee was opening a 1,000-mile tour which will take him to 34 political rallies in nine days. He is travelling by road in his own automobile driven by Mrs. Attlee.

Churchill addressed a roaring crowd of 50,000 in Cardiff football stadium. Welsh conservatives presented him with a 10-inch cigar bought in Germany for half a crown (about 39 cents).

The conservative chief called on labor leaders to repudiate the sentence in the socialist election manifesto attributing to an unidentified conservative the statement:

"Empty bellies are one thing that will make Britons work." Churchill said investigation had traced the statement to a Mr. Higgs, a one-time conservative member. Conservative headquarters in London had repudiated Higgs.

Czech Wants To Stay Here

OTTAWA, Feb 9—(CP)—Czechoslovakia, after a last-minute protest, met Canada's deadline yesterday for withdrawl to two of her officials. But one set of mysterious circumstances promptly replaced another.

These developments came on the day set by the government for departure of the two men in retaliation for the Czechs' expulsion of two Canadians Jan. 19 last:

2. The two, Richard Bergmann and Hugo Bohounek, took off from Mountreal on a trans-Atlantic flight for which Bergmann had cancelled his reservation in Ottawa. Reason for the cancellation remained a myster. Bergmann is listed as a bookkeeper but is reported to be an important Communist.

2. The external affairs department reported receipt of a formal note from the Czech legation, protesting their expulsion "in retaliation" and without any specific charges by Canada.

3. Stanislav Klima, charge D'Affaires at the legation, stayed behind but trucks and boxes of his clothes were removed from the building to a warehouse, spurring reports that he would ask for political sanctuary in Canada.

Pearson Mum On Asia Talks

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson returned to Ottawa last night after a round-the-world flight that took him to the Colombo commonwealth Conference and the Orient.

His RCAF North Star reached nearby Rockcliffe air station shortly before mdnight.

Mr. Pearson said the Commonwealth Conference had been "most successful." He declined to discuss most aspects of his trip and quickly left the airport with Mrs. Pearson who had accompanied him on the flight, the first time an RCAF crew has flown around the world.

The minister's visit has been envisaged here as a potential milestone in Canadian interest in the Far East, a point on which Mr. Pearson himself has touched in several press conferences.

However, informed sources said tonight the practical and immediate effects are not apt to be significant. The Commonwealth Conference agreed to set up a consuiative committee for mutual aid in building up southeast Asia, and Canada, along with the others, agreed to participate.

Bernard Shaw 'Funny Old Man' And 'Not Sacred'

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Le Cercle Moliere of St. Boniface made a clean sweep of the three major awards of the Manitoba regional drama festival which ended here last night.

Adjudicator Maxwell Wray of London judged their presentation of Moliere's "L'Avare" best in the three-day festival.

Two of its cast won individual prizes: Louis Souchon as best actor and Raymonde Marchande as top actress.

Regarding last night's presentation of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" by the Winnipeg Little Theatre, Mr. Wray said:

"Don't be afraid of it because it's Shaw," he said. "Shaw isn't sacred. He's a funny old man who lives in Whitehall. He's written some good plays and some bad plays. Don't be afraid of him—go at it."

Batsman Nehru

NEW DELHI—(CP)—Prime Minister Pandit Nehru may have something to distract him from duties of state. After laying the foundation stone of the National Sports Stadium in Delhi he was presented with a cricket bat inscribed with the names of the Commonwealth and Indian cricket teams.

HAILED AS GREATEST war story of this generation, "Battleground" tells story of 101st Airborne Division. Starring Van Johnson and John Hodiak, "Battleground" features American battle at Bastogne, France. Starts tomorrow at Capitol Theatre.

Epic War-Story Film Opens Here at Capitol

Down-to-earth story of the GI of the Second World War, without the usual flag-waving and mock heroics, is brought to the screen in MGM's "Battleground."

Taking the members of a squad in the 101st Airborne Division as its pivotal characters, "Battleground" gives the laugh, tears, cowardice and bravery of a cross-section of American GI's. It opens tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre.

In the fateful December of 1944 this squad of mud-stained, weary, battle-scarred soldiers is rudely awakened from the reports of crumbling Nazi resistance. Dreams of Paris furloughs are forgotten as once again they move to make a stand against the Krauts at a French town called Bastogne.

What happens to this assorted group during the seven days, including Christmas, is the story of "Battleground," a narrative told with fidelity and authenticity under the direction of William A. Wellman.

"Battleground" co-stars Van Johnson, John Hodiak, Ricardo Montalban, George Thompson, Jerome Courtland, Don Taylor, Bruce Cowling, James Whitmore, Douglas Fowley, Leon Ames, and Denise Darcel.

Austria Arrests 40 Red Agents In Three Months

VIENNA, Austria, Feb. 9—(UP)—A ranking Austrian government official said today that 40 known Russian and Communist agents had been arrested in western Austria during the past three months.

The official said one of them, believed to be head of the Czech intelligence network in Austria, had been takes into custody in Saltzburg last night.

He said approximately 200 Communists, including 50 in the secret political section, had been purged from the Austrian police organization since October.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—The Screen Writers' Guild opened the awards-giving season with a fancy affair to honor the best writing jobs of 1949. They were: best western, "Yellow Sky;" best comedy, "A Letter to Three Wives;" best musical, "On the Town;" best drama and best treatment of the American scene, "All the King's Men."

The double victory for "King's Men" hints that it will probably be the film to sweep the Academy Awards this year.

The program was a riot. The writers chortled at a satire on Hollywood life.

Lucille Ball played a funny scene of an actress hamming it up as she receives the Academy Award. "I want to congratulate the two other actresses who were up for the award," she said. "Sorry I don't have time to mention their names."

MOVIE TALK

Montgomery Clift left town Monday and will sail for Rome this week. He'll be back in the spring. Benedict and Nancy Freeman, authors of "Mrs. Mike," will have their second novel, "This and No More," published in April. He also writes gags for Red Skelton air show. Kathryn Grayson goes to Acapulco in March, then returns for "Showboat" or "Grounds for Marriage" with Robert Walker.

CAPSULE REVIEW

"Young Man With A Horn" (WB) is designed to be tragic study of a great jazz trumpeter. It is entertaining and often moving, but the great picture about jazz is still to be made. Assets: Good work by Kirk Douglas, singing by Doris Day, fine characterizations by Hoagy Carmichael and Lauren Bacall (in a difficult role), Harry James' trumpet work. Drawbacks: A milksop ending, lack of insight into most of the characters.

DANBURY, N.H., Feb. 9—(AP)—A spoonful of powdered horse medicine she had mistakenly brewed Tuesday night for coffee killed Mrs. Evan Huntoon, 64, within 15 minutes. Police said the woman apparently took the wrong can from a kitchen shelf, getting, instead of coffee, the poisonous powder.

Music Festival Judges Arrive

HALIFAX, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Four British adjudicators who will visit the majority of Canadian cities during their six months' tour, arrived here last night aboard the liner Empress of France. They are Alec Redshaw, John Sterling, Russell Green and Dr. C. S. Lang. First musical festivals for the adjudicators will be at Sudbury and Kingston, Ont. From there they go to Toronto and western cities.

Dutch Ambassador To Canada Appointed

THE HAGUE, Feb. 9—(CP)—Informed sources last night said Dr. Anton H. J. Lovink, former representative of The Nethelands crown in Indonesia, will be appointed Netherlands ambassador to Canada. Lovink has served as ambassador to China and Russia, and was The Netherlands' last colonial administrator in the East Indies before the territory won independence as United States of Indonesia.

Manitoba Avoids Coalition Break

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9—(CP)—Manitoba's 10-year-old coalition government appeared today to have weathered a crisis prompted by a Liberal-Progressive move to reduce Progressive-Conservative representation in the cabinet.

The Progressive-Conservatives walked out of a caucus Tuesday. A truce was called yesterday by the two parties, which held a second parley.

These sources said it now appears likely that Provincial Secretary W. C. Miller will be dropped from the cabinet. This would leave the Conservatives with three spots in the cabinet, which now has 12 members.

U.S., Canadian Lumber Bids Open

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—Britain yesterday was given $12,500,000 to buy lumber in Canada or the U.S. under the Marshall Plan, the Economic Co-operation Administration announced.

EAC said Britain will buy the lumber from suppliers either in the U.S. or Canada depending on the outcome of competitive bidding. Contracts for shipments must be made by June 30 and delivery completed by the end of December.

FOR ASCENT WITHOUT A SCENT—Two air freight agents spray a deodorizing chemical on one of 20 Angora goats before their flight from New York to Poona, India. The goats, from a Sonora, Tex., farm, needed the deodorizing to insure their social position with the cargo plane's crew. The agents are Vera Mammarella of Flushing, holding a tight grip on the Angora, and Mary Glynn of Bayside, operating the sprayer.

SOUNDS SAME ANYWAY

RED DEER, Feb. 9—It's possible that noise, and boys, could mean the same thing when talking of a high school dormitory.

Anyway, the idea came out in a report by L. A. Thuroer, superintendent of the Red Deer school division.

Due to a simple typing error, the report read: ::At present there are 310 pupils in residence, of whom 126 are girls and 184 are "noys".

HE'S PERSISTENT FLIER

Airborne Puppy Likes Life Among Clouds

By GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Feb. 9—(CP) — Prince, a seven-week-old shepherd dog, who would rather chase fluffy white clouds around at 10,000-foot levels than bark at the heels of fluffy white sheep on solid ground, today was at his accustomed post at daybreak.

When the crew of a United States air force B-17 clambered aboard their four-motored search plane, they found the little brown pup sitting up in the co-pilot's seat. The sight wasn't unusual.

For the last two weeks the aircraft has been engaged in the giant aerial search of the Yukon for the missing United States C-54 transport and its 44 passengers and crew.

Prince has made every search flight with the B-17. He now has about 100 hours of flying time, including flights aboard rescue gliders in Alaska.

The pup is the only airborne mascot at this northern search base. Eight hours every day he accompanies Lieut. Jim Keel of Chicago, Ill., as the American pilot and his crew search treacherous mountain tops and valleys. Between search sorties, Prince catches the odd wink of sleep aboard the aircraft.

"We've got him along as protection against wolves in case we have to come down somewhere in this rugged country," joked one crew member.

Ban On Salmon Aimed At Russ

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. Feb. 9—(BUP)—Ban on Sockeye salmon fishing in the high seas off the west coast was being viewed today as a move to discourage Russian and Japanese canning fleets from entering these grounds.

The ban, announced yesterday by Senator Tom Reid, chairman of the International Pacific Salmon Commission, was the most significant of four regulations governing United States and British Columbia Sockeye fishermen in 1950. The other regulations dealt with fishing dates.

Ban Papers At Election

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 9—(CP)—Three state by-elections will be held in New South Wales, on Saturday, but newspapers in the state are forbidden to discuss them until the results are known.

Under the New South Wales parliamentary electors and elections amendment act of 1949, invoked today, no person is allowed to print in public or distribute any newspaper or material of any kind containing electoral matter which will affect the result of the voting. The ban takes effect 70 hours before the polls close.

Labor Premier James J. McGirr of New South Wales, in defending the bill last year, said:

"To describe the daily press as free is completely misleading. All daily newspapers in Sydney are absolutely controlled by a mere handful of individuals—press proprietors.

"These men use newspapers as instruments of political propaganda. They are as much organs of propaganda as were the newspapers of Germany under Dr. Goebells."

Sydney newspapers, which are all anti-Labor, editorially attack the ban as "monstrous and stupid."

OPEN NEW STORE

The lowly nut has been so popular in Edmonton that the Nut House has built a bigger and more modern store to meet the increasing demand.

After weeks of hurrying and scurrying, they have at last moved into their modern new store at 10121 - 101 street.

Nut House officials, including Jack Fox, president, will attend the grand opening tomorrow of their finest store in Canada. The public has been invited to see the unveiling of finer nuts, more delicious popcorn and a brand new feature —Debrett chocolates.

KEPT VACUUM-PACKED

Nuts from all over the world meet at the Nut House. There are cashews from India, almonds and pignolias from Spain, pistachios from Syria, brazils from South America, and peanuts from China and United States.

These amazing kernels are hand-picked for quality, and shipped directly to the Nut House in their raw state. To insure freshness, they are sent in vacuum-packed tins and immediately packed in cold storage upon their arrival in Edmonton.

As they are needed, the nuts are carefully cooked in vegetable butter, buttered with the highest quality creamery butter, salted and prepared for selling.

DEMAND AIDS FRESHNESS

Some are combined in popular mixes, some are boxed in preparation for the large mail-order volume, and others are attractively displayed in spotless Nut House cases. The demand is so great for these tasty treats that their supply is always fresh, and customers are assured of the finest quality.

The various flavors of delicious popcorn have become so popular that the Nut House has increased the number, until it now boasts seven different varities. There is Licorice, Kokonut, Raspberry, Peppermint, Delicious Buttered, Cheese, and the famous Krispy-Kist. All popcorn is popped and flavored daily in Nut House kitchens.

NEW CHOCOLATE LINE

A wonderful new addition to the variety of confections is the famous Debrett Chocolates. Known throughout the world, Debrett chocolates produce 87 different varieties of chocolates and hard candies. All chocolates are hand-rolled and dipped by expert candy makers.

Manageress of Debrett chocolates in Vancouver, Mrs. Gladys Butcher, has made a special trip to Edmonton to introduce the sensational chocolates and candies to this city.

FREE SHOW SATURDAY

Miss Peggy Banninger, manageress of the Nut House in Edmonton for over four years, has had much experience in catering to the needs of the nut-loving population. She has been employed by Nut House stores for almost seven years, and has helped to build Edmonton's store to its present high standard of quality and service.

On Saturday morning, Miss Banninger will be hostess to 1,500 boys and girls, who will be treated to a free show at the Capitol Theatre and given a big bag of popcorn from the Nut House.

The new Nut House is located at 10121-101 street, and is considered the most beautiful of any Nut House store in Canada. Construction, which was supervised by Cecil Colville, general manager, features modern designing and the latest in air conditioning and candy cooling units.

The interior is finished in white, symbolical of the high standard of cleanliness held by the Nut House. Growing with Edmonton, they have more room and a bigger staff to handle growing demand.

FRIENDLY manageress of the Nut House, Peggy Banninger will be host to 1,500 kiddies at a special show to be held at the Capitol theatre Saturday morning.

The Nut House stores are the largest purchasers of raw nuts in Canada. Since the first Nut House was opened by W. J. Fox, at London, Ont., in 1936, they have made their symbol of high quality a byword to thousands.

Rail Concessions Asked in Maritimes

Say Economic Handicaps Dictate Need for Cut in Freight Rates

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—The Maritimes are laboring under economic handicaps requiring new freight-rate concessions, the Nova Scotia government said.

F. D. Smith of Halifax, counsel for the provincial government, urged the royal commission on transportation yesterday to consider measures to reduce railway rates on foodstuffs and other raw materials transported to east-coast points.

SUBSIDIES SUGGESTED

If no other way was open, then the federal government should grant subsidies to the railways as a means of keeping rates low.

These new subsidies would be in addition to the ones already paid by the federal administration to cut maritime rates 20 per cent lower than those prevailing in the central areas. The 20 per cent subsidy applies only to goods moving from east-coast to central and western points.

Appearing for the first time before the Royal Commission here, the Nova Scotia representative added to the 5,000,000 words of evidence already taken a 15,000-word brief which in part backed up contentions of Alberta that the railways financial structure should be standardized and revised.

ALBERTA PLAN

Alberta's submission, presented by Kenneth Morrison of Calgary, provincial financial advisor on freight rates, urged that the board of transport commissioners be granted extended powers over the railways' financial systems.

Mr. Morrison recommended that the board be given power to:

1. Segregate the rail from the non-rail activities of each carrier.
2. Force the railways to change their accounts to match this segregation.
3. Direct the railways to "properly apportion" between rail and non-rail all charges which are common to rail and non-rail operations.
4. Direct the railways to submit financial accounts to the board in accordance with this segregation.

Bush-Clearing Is Capital Cost Tax Board Says

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Appeal of James Michael McDonald, Prince Albert, Sask., farmer against a National Revenue ruling disallowing a deduction of $503 from his 1946 income tax has been dismissed by the Income Tax Appeal Board.

The $503 was expended by Mr. McDonald for clearing and breaking a total of some 27 acres of bushland on his 900-acre farm.

The board dismissed the appeal on the grounds that the sum expended was in the nature of a capital expense and therefore nondeductable.

HALF-MAN GOLDSTICK

Hold onto your hat, mother, and I'll tell you a hair-raising yarn.

Yessirr folks, if you'll pardon the corn, I shall tell you a tale. It concerns a popular young man aobut town name of Cecil Goldstick, whose personal charm recently won him our vote as THE HALF MAN OF THE CENTURY.

Cecil as you have no doubt heard, is more often called Tiger because of his ferocity in the wrestling ring. In his younger days (B.O.—Before Oeming) he was prominent locally among the you-hit-me-then-I-hit-you trade, otherwise known as wrestling.

B.O.—PLENTY

Tiger, who has more friends than Oeming has dollars, has more or less retired from active acting and is now employed as personal advisor and consultant to the aforementioned Albert (which Packard will we drive today?) Oeming, and also referees on the side.

As genial and sunny as ever, Tiger still possesses the cat-like speed of his youth — and this proved the downfall of a belligerent customer in one of the city's all-night eateries early one morning recently.

It develops that Tiger was accosted by a huge lout who was well on his way to having a hangover the next morning. This inabriate threatened Tiger's person with bodily harm and even took a swing at our Cecil.

CECIL, THE CONQUEROR

Whereupon Cecil disposed of his opponent with a well-aimed kick to the groin, quickly followed by a body press.

This left the alcoholic adversary fondly embracing the floor with Cecil triumphant as monarch of all he surveyed.

Thereupon one and all partook of a toast to Cecil in the wine of the house, which was ketchup.

But here is the significance of the tale.

Despite the fact that he is now champion of Malnutrishun Manor, Tiger is the same simple guy he always was.

TRIUMPH OVER EVIL

Speaking of Cecil, and we are as you can plainly see, here's another tale which testifies to his triumph over evil.

During the recent war when he served as a P.T. professor in the Navy, Cecil was horrified at the activities in which some of his shipmates were engaged.

It transpires that some of the lads were buttressing their income by diluting their ration of thick Navy rum and peddling it at a buck an ounce in the staid old town of Victoria.

This could not be condoned.*

So Tiger and the Commodore conferred with the Victoria Chamber of Commerce on the seriousness of the situation.

The chamber protested against rum-running because it didn't want anything potted in Victoria but the plants, whereas Tiger objected on the moral grounds that Navy rum would make you see double and feel single.

Three cheers and a Tiger!

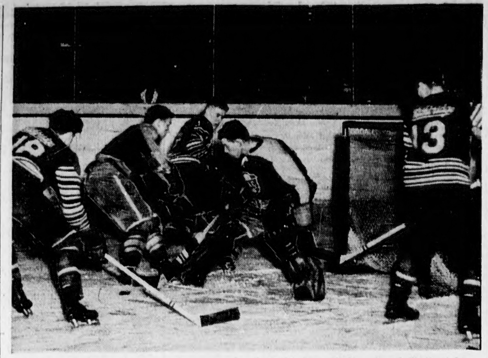
* Obviously.

Ski Clubs Plan Meets

Edmonton and Eskimo Ski clubs will hold their annual club championships Sunday afternoon on their respective hills.

Races will include Senior men, Senior ladies and Junior men, and will be run off under the supervision of club officials. It is reported that a "walkie-talkie" will be used in order to keep more accurate time on the runs.

The following Sunday, February 19, city championships will be held on the Eskimo hill out at White Mud. From this meet a six-man team will be selected to represent Edmonton at the Inter-City championships at Banff on March 11-12.



EAC NETMINDER Bob Arniel, saw much of Lethbridge Native Sons' first string as Clubmen were dumped 7-1 at Gardens last night. Defenceman Keith Lea is shown helping Arniel as Cal Hockley (18), Bill Dea and ace centre Guyle Fielder (13), swarm around the EAC puckstopper's citadel.

Bill Dea, Mates Stick Out As Sons Wallop EAC 7-1

Lethbridge Native Sons 7, Edmonton Athletic Club 1.

There you have it . . . last night's score in the junior exhibition game played at the Gardens between the leaders of the Northern Alberta and Western Canada Junior leagues.

Considering Sons to be one of the top junior clubs in the west, the loss was not very hard to take.

The 2,000 fans which took in the game seemed to enjoy it.

STANDOUT LINE

Centre Guyle Fielder and his wingers, Bill Dea and Cal Hockley, were the big guns in the Lethbridge victory. Fielder and Hockley each scored the hat-trick while Dea, an Edmonton product, picked up four assists. Hockley had two helpers.

Coming around the net, he poked the puck into the cage at 57 seconds. Sixteen and a half minutes later he made it 2-0 and the period ended with Sons enjoying that edge.

GEARY FOR EAC

Early in the second, pivot Bill McNally fed Geary a neat pass and the big fellow drew goalie Boomer Rodzinak out before bachanding the disc into the net for EAC's lone goal

Art Stone, the second baseman for Buffaloes of the Big Four league in summer, counted the visitors' third goal, and the second period ended with Sons still enjoying a two goal lead.

In the last stanza, Hockley scored three goals in a row to practically cinch the game for Pete Slobodian's Sons. He scored two in the space of 33 seconds.

Fielder got his third goal two seconds before the final whistle.

Both puck-stoppers turned in outstanding performances, Bob Arniel of EAC played one of his best games on Garden ice this season, stopping several labelled goals.

MERCS ROMP TO 9-0 WIN OVER DAVOS CLUB

DAVOS, Switzerland, Feb. 9—(CP)—Edmonton Mercurys romped to a 9-0 victory over a Davos team last night in an exhibition game before 3,000 fans. Hassie Young scored three goals for the Mercurys, Canada's representatives in the world hockey championships at London next month.

It was hardly more than a good workout for the Mercurys, whose superior speed and passing attack was too much for the Swiss puck-chasers.

Doug Macauley was second high man for the Canadians with two goals, while singles went to Harry Allen, Bill Dawe, Leo Lucchini and Bob Watt.

Mercurys play next at Zurich, Friday.

BEDRIDDEN Philip Black got thrill of lifetime yesterday afternoon when rassler 'Whipper Billy' Watson called around to see him and friends at Camsell hospital. Harry Smarch looks on intently as Watson demonstrates hold to the grinning Black.

'Whipper' Watson Visits At Camsell

A group of young 'shut-ins' got the thrill of a lifetime yesterday afternoon when 'Whipper Billy' Watson, Toronto's claimant to the Canadian wrestling title, dropped in at the Charles Camsell hospital.

And it might as well be admitted right now that some of the oldsters in the place were more than a trifle pepped up when 'The Whip' elected to tour most of the wards.

For the kids Watson, who was accompanied by rasslin promoter Ol Oeming and Cecil (Tiger) Goldstick, had a special treat.

He demonstrated some of the famous holds that have earned him rating as one of the world's best grunt-and-groaners, to say nothing of having put him on easy street financially.

Goldstick 'was a willing victim for most of these. But 'The Whip' had time to 'work over' a number of the young inmates, as well.

Founder of the 'Whipper Billy' Watson safety club movement, the easterner long has indicated a liking for youngsters. It stuck out all over him yesterday.

In the veteran's wards Watson discovered that many of the men were quite familiar with his record as a mat-man. They kibitzed with him and he had an answer for most of their queries.

"I always get a big bang out of these trips to a hospital," Watson enthused as he left the Camsell.

He seemed to, at that.

CANADA'S LAST HOPE

Look for Bill Parnell To Win B.E. Games' Mile

EDEN PARK, Auckland, N.Z., Feb. 9—(Reuters)—A record-shattering day in British Empire track and field competition yesterday left Canada still seeking her initial first-place medal. But Bill Parnell's performance indicated he may come through on the final day.

The young Vancouver runner staged a great finish to win his semi-final in the men's one-mile run and now is favored to win Saturday's final against a field of five.

Outside of that, the fifth day of the week-long Commonwealth competitions was virtually all Australia. The down-under country all but clinched first place in the 12-country standings by winning six of seven finals contested, leaving only the shot put to little Fiji.

Australian athletes set four British Empire game records, including slender Marjorie Jackson's world-record equalling 24.3 final in the women's 220-yard final. An old one was set by Canadian Robina Higgins of Winnipeg in the javelin throw at Sydney in 1938.

Australians set other B E games records in the women's 80 metres hurdles and the men's 120-yard hurdles.

Besides Miss Jackson, who earlier won the 100-yard dash, Australia got her second double-winner when sprinter Johnny Treloar added the 220 to his 100-yard win.

Canada got two more points when Leo Roininen of Sudbury, Ont., captured third place in the shot put and Don Pettie of Calgary placed fifth in the 220-yards final. The dominion also suffered a blow when Ez Henniger of Vancouver, counted on for Saturday's relay, pulled up lame in his 440 heat.

Miss Jackson's record-shattering performance was her second of the 1950 games.

Jake Mintz said "Louis should be ready for his comeback this summer.

"I'm sure of this. The game has been kind to him. Now it needs his help to revive the big million-dollar spectacle."

Late Regina Rally Nips Flyers By 6-5

'Red' Tilson's Goal Turns Tables in Wide Open Tilt

REGINA, Feb. 9—(CP)—Red Tilson's goal at 17:33 in the last period last night gave the tail-end Regina Capitols a 6-5 victory over the league-leading Edmonton Flyers in a Western Canada Hockey league fixture.

Tilson's marker settled a see-saw battle which saw Caps hold a 1-0 lead in the first period, drop back on even terms at 4-4 at the end of the second, then wipe out an early third-period counter by Flyers to gain their victory.

The triumph moves Regina to within four points of Calagry Stampeders and Saskatoon Quakers, tied for second place with 39 points apiece. Flyers maintain their 10-point, first-place margin.

Lou Hauck paced Regina's attack, bagging his clubs first two goals. Ab McDougall, Bob Wiest, Toby Brown and Tilson completed the scoring in that order. Freddie Smitten accounted for two of Flyers' markers, the others going to Colin Kilburn, Don Culley and Alec Pringle.

FLYERS SHORTHANDED

Flyers were without the sedvices of wingers Doug Anderson and Bing Ma‹luk, both on the injured list, while Caps played without Bill Kyle, benched by coach Art Somers after the Calgary game of last week's Alberta trip.

Approximately 3,540 fans watched Caps take a 1-0 lead in the first period when Hauck poked a rebound home.

Kilburn's goal early in the second period evened the count. Flyers went one up on Culley's dribbler along the crease and went further ahead when Smitten scored thefirst of his two markers.

With both clubs a man short, Caps got one back when Hauck bagged his second marker. He took Brown's pass close in and caught the net on a high shot to the corner.

BAREFOOT SHAKY

Barefoot was shaky on Pringle's goal, which came after a spirited Regina rally had died down, McDougall got that one back about a minute later as he drilled the rubber past Frederick while Lane and Brown were sitting out penalties.

The home club evened the score at 4-4 while Watt was serving a holding penalty. Wiest finished off a beautiful passing play with Tilson to get the goal.

Flyers turned on the pressure early in the third period and were stopped cold by the brilliant work of Barefoot until Smitten scored No. 2 after Kreller made a pass from his knees.

When the pair returned, Flyers played cosy but they finally broke when Brown slipped by on Wiest's pass and slipped the puck past Frederick after rounding the Flyer net.

With less than a minute remaining, McDougall coasted in on the Flyer defence, pushed the pusk across the goalmouth, and Tilson made no mistake as he tipped the rubber home.

The People Write..their Beefs And Bouquets (What Bouquets?)

'No Name, Please': "MYSTERY OF THE WEEK: How did Bill Kyle rate even a sniff of the NHL, let alone a smell and a peek? .. OBSERVATIONS: Best forward in WCHL—Dougie Anderson . . . a symphany (the spelling is not ours) of symmetry in motion on skates. Best defenceman: Pug-The-Beloved Young, enjoying his finest season in hockey.

CHOICE FOR ALL-STAR TEAM: Pony Line plus Young and Lane, all of Flyers (no goalie required); second team—your choice balance of Flyers.

WHEN WILL 'GOLD' EN BOY RAY FREDERICK GET HIS OVERDUE SHUTOUT?

PERSONAL NOTE: Don't let these crackpots of pen and phone get you down . . . even if you're not always on the beam. Even sports editors are human (Well aren't they?)

Comment: Here's a guy who's on that Flyer bandwagon like he had a big piece of the club. Doubt however if the locals will enjoy quite the monopoly on all-star honors he implies. For instance, how're you going to keep Russ Dertell and Ab McDougall off the first team?

Also an oldster like Tommy Burlington will push even an Anderson to the wire for centre-ice honors, although the 10 year pull the Flyer speedster has on Burlington in the age brackets should tip the scales in his favor.

Sports editors human? Definitely!

Lee R. Dodds, BA, DD.S, Tegler Bldg.: "Taking cognizance of your recent "confidentially" and highly publicized query, the Commission has decided to send our notices out on that other tissue which comes in longer but narrower rolls, inasmuch as it is more in keeping with the comments we receive occasionally from the press."

Comment: Dr. Dodds, president of the Edmonton Boxing and Wrestling Commission, sounds a little bitter. As a public service we merely inquired the other day if it were true that notices of meetings were being sent out by the Commission secretary on pieces of KLEENEX. Still it's comforting to note that what we write comes under the category of "highly publicized."

Mrs. H. S. Bell, 9614-106A Avenue: "On behalf of the City Ladies Bonspiel committee I take pleasure in extending our sincere thanks for the excellent publicity re draws and results of our recent bonspiel."

Comment: Whatever became of the McCool draw?

G. C. Tory, Box 231, Wainwright " ..re Golden Gloves, would like to see it, but don't want to pay near $10 rail-fare and get no ticket or one NO GOOD. Further in re-Golden Gloves have a new idea for you. Why not add to it by putting on the 'Old Boys' class — 80 years or over.

"Rules — three minute rounds . . . proof of age. . . no boxing experience Guess that's all."

Comment: If Mr. Tory, who says he's been a Bulletin reader for 33 years, comes all the way from Wainwright for the Golden Gloves tourney, he can count on a pair of the 'best in the house.' As for his 'Old Boys' class —guess this proves Mr. Tory likes his gag as well as the next fellow. At least let's hope it's a gag.

Bill Savage, 10976 - 75 Avenue: "Achtymichuk DID NOT play on the team that brought the intermediate championship to Willingdon. I have made several inquiries about this."

Comment: Nobody cared, particularly, where Gene Achtymichuk played last season until he began to get all those goals for 'Cooney' LeFeuvre's junior Canadians. But whether he belongs to Andrew, Willingdon or Flushing, fact is he's doing okay in junior circles.

Attention 'Fairplay': As you suggest I may be "bigoted" (sure you don't mean prejudiced?) and I may make Edmontonians look like a "dumb bunch of hicks, to say nothing of rotten sports. Further, maybe all I do—as you say—is "beef."

Yes, all this may be true. But at least I sign my name to what I write. Why don't you — 'Fairplay' (?).

Hilda Walker, 14821 - Summit Drive: "I have yet to find any information on your sports page about the Imperials . . a commercial league hockey team."

Comment: Until a few days back we received no information relative to the doings of commercial league teams. Obviously we can't cover all games in the many minor loops that operate in the city. But we're all for carrying the results of their games if someone'll pass them along. Hasn't this league got a secretary?

L. Middleton and E. Goodjohn, 205 7th Avenue N.E., Calgary: "How about it Edmonton? Let's try to be a little rational and not make any remarks which can't be proved."

Comment: WHAT — and kill off that Calgary - Edmonton feud altogether?

Patrick Decries Hockey Trends

CALGARY, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Frank Patrick, one of hockey's greatest innovators, still has ideas about the game.

But the man who is credited with introducing the playoff system, the forward pass and the penalty for checking into the boards — says he isn't going to come up with his brainstorms for free anymore.

"For years I did it for nothing," he said. "but now I have my ideas copyrighted."

What did he think of the game today?

"They've made plenty of rule changes to make it a spectator game," Patrick said in an interview, "but one of these days they're going to have to come up with some new ones."

"There are not enough goals being scored and altogether too much interference. Hockey as it is now is the only big-time sport in which fans don't see plenty of scoring and it's starting to take effect. The crowds are already starting to fall off."

He said the day of super-stars is over because present-day hockey puts too much strain on players.

Birds Warble for Faciote As Wolf Registers Kayo

Edgar Faciote found out all about 'windmill' fighters at the Memorial hall last night as the South Side Legion boxing club presented an interesting card.

Pitted against Morris Wolf, a rugged redskin from nearby Hobbema, Faciote discovered the air thick with wildly flailing fists along about 1:55 of the second round. Quite a number of those fists landed on the button, so that finally Faciote went down and was counted out.

The Wolf-Faciote bout highlighted a card that served as one of the last competitive tune-ups for many of the battlers who will show their wares at the Bulletin's second annual Golden Gloves tournament, Feb. 23-24.

In what was given top-billing prior to the start of the card, Legion's Walter Kozak punched his way to an unpopular decision over Jim Stanway, Edmonton Boys' Boxing club. Loser took a nine count in the second round after losing his footing during a wild exchange of blows.

A contingent of fighters from Barrhead, six strong, operated at a .500 pace for the evening. Coach Len McKinley's hopefuls caught the nod three times in the six bouts in which they participated.

Ken Hosack, Ed Ernst and Ray Edwards were the Barrhead scrappers to turn in victories.

Gordon Holgate, Barrhead, lost by a unanimous decision to Joe Smith, of the host club, in one of the most exciting bouts on the card.

A 'battle-royal'—with five young blindfolded pugilists hard at it in the ring at the same time, provided an amusing touch to the proceedings. Bill Roberts and Ron Forges survived the milling and then hooked up in a short bout.

Earlier — sans blindfolds — they had staged a three-round exhibition encounter.

Referees for the evening were Alf Tansey and Johnny Smith while Gordie Riddell, Jack Nuttal and Charlie Croft handled the judging. Jack Reilly acted as announcer.

RESULTS

Ray Edwards, Barrhead, 125 pounds, decisioned Leo Hayman, South Side, 121; Dave Ward, South Side, 112, split decisioned Bob Schumanus, Barrhead, 112; Ken Hosack, Barrhead, 128, decisioned Bob Goldie, South Side, 126; Ed Ernst, Barrhead, 126, split decisioned Bob Johnson, South Side, 126; Con Bush, South Side, 146, split decisioned Billy Koch, Barrhead, 152; Joe Smith, South Side, 150, decisioned Gordon Holgate, Barrhead, 148; Morris Wolf, South Side, 140, knocked out Edgar Faciate, unattached, 140, (2nd round); Walter Kozak, South Side, 142, decisioned Jim Stanway, EBBC, 144.

Leafs Defeat Boston 3-1

MONTREAL, Feb. 9—The dashing Toronto Maple Leafs, clipping along at a red-hot pace, climbed into a second place tie with Montreal Canadiens last night by defeating Boston Bruins 3-1 at Boston.

Leafs now have won 13 of their last 15 games and the victory last night gave them a total of 51 points and deadlocked the second spot in the National hockey league.

Meanwhile, in the only other league game, the goal-hungry Detroit Red Wings pasted the last place Chicago Hawks 9-2 at Detroit to increase their first-place lead to 10 points. The Hawks are last with 40, while Boston and New York remain tied for third place with 44 points apiece.

The Toronto-Boston game was a typically rough match between the two but was well-controlled by referee Hugh McLean who handed out 11 penalties. Leaf wingman Howie Meeker and Boston rearguard Fern Flaman drew five-minute majors for fighting in the third period.

The Bruins again played without regular goalie Jack Gelineau, out with an injury. Gord Henry, up from the American league Hershey Bears, filled in between the pipes.

Howie Meeker, Max Bentley and Sid Smith were the Toronto scorers while Johnny Peirson managed the lone Boston goal.

Detroit victory was their first one since last Jan. 21 when they defeated the same Hawks 5-3. Since then they had racked up six ties and two losses.

Six Detroit players shared the scoring with Gord Howe, Jim Peters and Marty Pavelich each getting a pair. The other three went to Ted Lindsay, Sid Abel and George Gee.

Gaye Stewart and Metro Prystal potted the two Chicago markers in the second period.

Third Period: Toronto, S. Smith, 7:35. Penalties — Ezinicki, Schmidt, Meeker (major), Flaman (major).

MORINVILLE, Feb. 9 — Melton's handed Morinville a 5-2 defeat here last night in an Edmonton and District Intermediate Hockey league game.

Nearly everyone got into the act for Melton's as five of the squad flipped one into the net, the snipers being Lloyd Spooner Tom Cork, Bill Highet, Ben Cherski and Doug Herb.

S-D Has Inside Track Big 4 Franchise: Cundal

Big Four Baseball league president Sam Irwin was about as silent as the sphinx following a meeting in Calgary yesterday to discuss the recent withdrawal of Edmonton Cubs from the loop.

In a terse, 24-word statement, Irwin divulged that representatives of Edmonton Oilers, Calgary Purity 99, and Calgary Buffaloes considered applications, for the Cub franchise, and that the final decision awaits replies from the applicants.

The Irwin communique also revealed [illegible] will be adopted for the 1950 season.

Others attending the meeting were more loquacious. For example, Purity's general manager, Harold Cundal, said that Sparling-Davis of this city have the inside track on the franchise.

However, Cundal hastened to add that two other applications —one from Calgary and one from Edmonton — were received and the same proposition was made by the league to all applicants.

John Ducey, boss man of the Oilers, refused to be quoted last night. Said the usually talkative Ducey: "I'm muzzled on this deal. Any information on it must come from president Irwin."

But for all the secrecy, Sparling-Davis appears to be the most likely organization to snap up the vacant franchise. Earl Elsey, personnel manager of Sparling Davis, was rumored to have been in attendance at the Calgary confab but he never so much as left his office yesterday.

"In a telephone conversation with Mr. Irwin," said Elsey, "we decided that nothing could be gained by having a representative at the meeting."

Elsey disclosed that his firm is keenly interested in entering the Big Four but felt that the league was valuing the franchise too highly. However, to prove our good faith in carrying out our obligations to the league, we would be willing to post a bond or guarantee."

Vegreville In 5-5 Stalemate

VEGREVILLE, Feb. 9—Behind 4-0 at one time early in the game, Vegreville Rangers fought back and earned a 5-5 tie with Wainwright Commandos in an Eastern Alberta Hockey league game played here last night.

Walt Dutchak, with a pair, Kay Strate, Soneff and Giltner turned on the red light for the visitors.

'Buzz' Charuk scored twice for the locals and set up the other three as he put on a one man show. George Dowhaniuk, Meunier, and Gorsline found the range for the other Ranger goals.

Al Kirk Stars In Bantam Play

Bells whitewashed McKillops 9-0 and Ferguson and Hrudey downed Chics 7-4 last night in a pair of South Side Bantam Hockey league games at Ritchie and Tipton rinks.

Al Kirks sparked Bells with four goals while Ed Reese netted two. Singles were scored by Terry Mahood, Lorne Breese and Derril Kernan.

Goal getters for Ferguson and Hrudey were Rodger Cary and Harry Griffin-Beale with a pair, and singletons by Jack Nicholl and Oliver Devore.

Chic's scorers were Dale Ginther, Norm James and Gordon Murray, with a brace.

Hawk Coach Hits Scribe

DETROIT, Feb. 9—(AP)—Hockey writer Lew Walter of the Detroit Times, reported to police last night that he was struck in the face by coach Charlie Conacher of the Chicago Black Hawks in the Chicago dressing room.

He said he would seek an assault warrant against Conacher today.

Walter told Sgt. Ernest Gildea that the assault occurred when he went to the dressing room to interview Conacher after the Chicago team had been whipped 9-2 by Detroit Red Wings in a National Hockey league game.

Walter received first-aid treatment and had X-rays taken at hospital to determine if there was any internal injury.

NO FRACTURE

A hospital physician said "There is considerable swelling and the skin is broken but I don't think there is any fracture."

Conacher left with his team to fly back to Chicago and was unavailable for comment.

This was the story as pieced together from reports by Gildea, Walter and other newspaper men

Hockey writer Paul Chandler of the Detroit News was the first to interview Conacher after the game. He said: "Conacher was really peeved about the loss and at the officiating."

Chandler had just left the Chicago dressing room when Walter entered.

Walter said Conacher's first words were: "You fellows never come around except when we get beat.'

THEY ARGUED

The Times' writer said he told Conacher: "That's not quite right."

He said Conacher suddenly hit him in the face, knocking him down.

The newspaper man then went to Gildea, who was on traffic duty outside Olympia Stadium. Gildea said the Chicago coach had gone by the time he reached the dressing room.

Conacher faced further troubles as referee Bill Chadwick said he would file a full report with the NHL headquarters on an incident that occurred during the game.

That was when Chicago's Doug Bentley was felled in a collision with Wings' George Gee.

Conacher wanted a penalty called on the Detroit club and when it was not meted out, witnesses said, he grabbed Chadwick by the shoulders and shook him.

Farmers Demand Floor Price Plan

Brief Given Prime Minister and Cabinet Urges 'Prompt Action'

OTTAWA, Feb. 9—(CP)—Canadian farmers have urged immediate adoption by the federal government of a [illegible] price support program to "safeguard our farm economy and our general Canadian economy."

[illegible]

"FACE MAJOR CRISIS"

ASK UK HOG DEAL

[illegible]

The brief also asked that every effort be made to negotiate a further bacon contract with the United Kingdom at the expiry of the present contract. It is felt to be vital to the hog industry of Canada that contact with this market be preserved."

In addition the government was asked to continue quality premium payments.

The brief recommended that the support price for eggs be increased from 38 to 42 cents a dozen for grade A large.

Noting that net income from dairying "fell much more than $250,000,000" in Canada last year, the federation recommended that:

Cheese prices for 1950 be maintained at the 1950 level of 30 cents a pound instead of the new price of 27 cents a pound.

The floor price for butter be maintained at 58 cents a pound basis Montreal.

The government should maintain its active support of the international wheat agreement.

Present powers of the Canadian Wheat Board should be extended to make it the sole marketing agency for wheat and coarse grains.

Price of wheat for domestic consumption for the 1950-51 crop year should be maintained at the ceiling price—$1.98 in Canadian funds—under the international wheat agreement.

Consideration should be given to authorizing the wheat board to make an interim payment of 10 cents a bushel on oats and barley.

A number of general recommendations included:

1. An investigation be made into costs of feed grains, mill feeds and protein feeds.

The Road Was Rough for Pioneers

FOR ERNEST RALPH JAMES the painting is symbolic. Some 43 years ago he faced the life of the pioneer, worked his way to build a modest dairy farm that has helped feed Edmonton with milk. Dairymen's Association this week honored him with life membership as tribute. James is hopeful of other tributes. He owns mineral rights to his land.

on the TOWN...

By Jack DeLong

Hitting the Bottle

Afterthoughts following talks with old friends at the dairy convention: What would become of the dairy industry if all the babies in the world switched to ginger ale? What would become of Liquor Control Board's Alex Mason if all grown-ups switched to milk? What would become of housewives if the cows went on a five-day week? What would Dairy Association president Gibb of St. Albert say if scientists discovered a way to make butter out of margarine? When is the price of milk coming down?

Nuclear nit-witicism: Said the proton to the neutron: "Let's be up and atom." Replied the neutron: "Let's go fission instead."

Try This Firm

If your jallopy gets stuck in a snowdrift why not call on the reliable firm of Joe Strother and John Cooper, CPR and CNR general superintendents respectively? This pair of top drawer Edmonton railroad officials are experts, no foolin'.

At least George Hagelstein's guest up on St. George's Crescent, is a great booster for the Strother-Cooper team after they shoved his car out of a great big drift recently, "We can move anything out of snowdrifts after the last two winters," say the railroad bossmen.

Veteran Edmonton city police sergeant, Hamilton "Tiny" Lyttle, will likely be out of hospital in a couple of weeks. "Tiny" slipped and broke a leg on New Year's Eve. Just tell that old leg to tend to its knitting "Tiny" and we'll be seeing you soon.

Elegant Elsie was so annoyed yesterday she neglected to give me a coffee warm-up when the boss wasn't looking. Exclaimed Elsie: "Imagine Bob Hope wanting $10,000 just for one night at the Edmonton fair! Why sometimes my tips for a whole month don't run that high."

Odds and Ends

Engraver Ed Jackson wants me to send an orchid to the driver of Bonnie Doon bus No. 34. Ed tells me this driver always waits to see if there are any stragglers running to catch the bus before he pulls away from stops. Yes, we'll see that this hero of old 34 gets his orchid, Ed.

Theodore Ungarian was mighty pleased about the send-off and the swanky club bag his fellow workers at the Macdonald hotel gave him yesterday. Theodore has been retired on pension after 20 years service at the Mac. Recently he's been working in the steward's department.

President Fred Purkiss of Glenora Community league says that if the fine new league hall has any unbroken windows on opening night it won't be Harold Warham's fault. It seems that Harold means well but just can't move a board without poking it through a window. Oh well, it's a paneless habit.

Neither A. W. Miller, KC, nor Clayton Greenlees is going to get Elsie's address from me.

LOOK BEFORE YOU BUY

Think of You? Sure I Do Every Time I Pass a Zoo

By PAT McVEAN
Bulletin Staff Writer

The association of the lovers' festival with St. Valentine is purely accidental, the Encyclopedia Brittanica observes of next Tuesday's celebration.

And the big wise book shouldn't stop there; the whole consequence of Valentine's Day is accidental.

SENTIMENTS ARE THERE

Examination of the valentine propaganda being disseminated currently from greeting card houses, proves the average red-blooded male has the usual chance of escaping the middle-aisle.

Which is practically none at all.

Let him, no matter how innocently, journey to the drug store or the stationer's to buy the paper heart and rhyming sentiment that tradition dictates. Before long he will realize Messrs. Rustcraft and Coutts have been more deadly in their dealings toward him than ever was prospective father-in-law on the trigger end of a shotgun.

PRACTICALLY PROPOSES

True enough he can steer clear of the satin sachet and the lifetime of devotion to which they swear him, for these valentines are obviously designed for the man who wants to go down for the last time in the sea of matrimony.

He'll save the dollar one of these missives would cost him, but, turning from them, he will accidentally catapult himself into marriage with the five to 50 cent jobs that are the only alternative.

Oh, they look innocent enough.

But when a man puts his name to a sentiment that says: "Well, beat me brown and call me cookie if I wouldn't love to be your snookie," no bended-knee, hand-to-heart proposal was more definite.

ONE OUTLET

Or in the last dying hours of Feb. 13 let him frantically grab a card which says: "Oil wells ain't what you got, but I love you a heck of a lot" and the postman will scarcely reach her door before she's calling up her friends to announce the engagement.

In fact, in a Bulletin survey of 1950 Valentine greetings, there was discovered only one card which offers the male a tiny loophole of escape.

For those who don't want to find a scrap of fancy paper has casually committed them to a lifetime of loving, honoring and cherishing, the valentine is recommended which bears this sentiment:

"Think about 'cha?
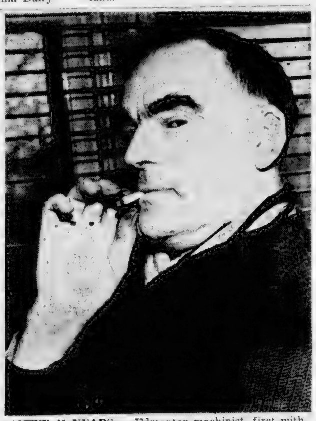
Every time I
Pass a zoo"



AFTER 41 YEARS as Edmonton machinist, first with city, latterly CNR, John Watt retires next week, glad that the lights don't flicker so he can get on with his reading.

Early Light Was Hard On the Citizens' Eyes

Days when Edmonton's electrical system depended on a wheezing gas-powered engine, were recalled by John Watt, veteran city machinist, soon to retire.

Since 1921 Mr. Watt has been with the CNR at the Calder shops but before that worked as an engineer in the city power plant.

Blood, sweat and tears went into the operation of the awkward, huge gasoline giant which supplied Edmonton with electricity, said Mr. Watt.

COMPLAINTS

"We used to be flooded with complaints all the time," he said.

The engine, said Mr. Watt, was about 60 feet long and approximately 20 feet high. Its operation was one of the first problems he tackled after arriving in Edmonton from Aberdeen, Scotland in 1909.

The lumbering engine, to use Mr. Watt's phrase, "was covered from top to bottom with water cooling devices."

End of the giant that tried hard came after the First World War when it was scrapped and steam turbines were installed by the city.

"It just wasn't the same after that," mused Mr. Watt.

In 1921 he joined the CNR where he has been since, working on precision parts for axles, boxes and wheel fittings.

Mr. Watt just plans on taking things easy "around the house," after retirement on Feb. 14.

ODD REQUEST FOR CAMERA

A Broadview, Sask. high school teacher requested the camera to use in instructing his class in a special course.

There are on the average 200,000 Canadian people disabled from mental sickness — 100,000 permanently and 100,000 temporarily.

The known water-power resources of Canada are estimated at 43,700,000 horsepower, of which about one-sixth has been developed.

GOOD BANK ACCOUNT

Today's tip: Watch how you sit.

Two young boys on Low Level bridge were obviously bound for the picture show. One said he had 22 cents and "got it by raiding the chesterfield again".

Tribute To Pioneering Dairyman

By VIC O'NEILL
Bulletin Staff Writer

To Edmonton city dwellers

Next time you switch on your home lights or light the radiant think of Ernest Ralph James.

Veteran dairyman and farmer, Mr. James in his easy going manner takes with serene philosophy the fact that his dwelling is illuminated by the old-fashioned oil lamp and heated by coal and wood stoves and furnace.

HONORED BY DAIRYMEN

That in itself is nothing, he says, for there are many in the same position throughout the province.

With Mr. James it's a case of being "so near and yet so far."

For 43 years he has lived six and a half miles south of the now metropolitan Edmonton on the Calgary trail. From a modest herd there he has been a consistent shipper of milk for almost the full length of that span.

In recognition of that record and for many other services rendered to the industry the Alberta Dairymen's Association at their convention here honored the veteran dairyman with life membership.

Mr. and Mrs. James' family of three have long since left the farm home where they were raised, and where they helped with the dairy herd during their school years. They are married and have homes of their own. But the pioneer couple carry on as they did when they first arrived in 1907 straight from Southampton.

The James family's cupboard has never been bare but there have been rough roads and pretty stringent economic periods during the four decades.

"In our district we are blessed with good neighbors," said Mr. James, "but I know there are many in other districts that have had pretty hard times in the old days."

HOPING FOR GAS

"When do you expect to get rural electrification and gas?" he was asked.

His eyes twinkled as he viewed an oil painting of an early settler breaking virgin Alberta soil.

"I don't know when the electricity will come . . . but I'm hoping about the gas—though I can't say much because I don't know," he said.

The question and the answer had two different shades of meaning.

Mr. James later declared he owned the mineral rights on his farm holdings.

"That's why I'm hoping," he said.

Jasper Property Bid Is Lowered

City Turns Down Second Tender On Central Site

City's finance committee last night tossed out a second and unusual bid for choice property on Jasper avenue.

The bid was $5,000 below a previous bid which was refused and the situation prompted one committee member to inquire whether Jasper avenue property was declining in value.

The offer was for city-owned property at 10033-35 Jasper avenue, the arcade entrance to public library and the Canadian Legion.

NEW BUILDING

Harvie and Yanda, on behalf of a client, have been negotiating for some time to buy it.

Their first offer was $65,000, payable $35,000 cash and the balance at $1,000 per month, with interest at four per cent and a period of six years in which to start construction of a new office building over the arcade entrance to the public library and the Canadian Legion.

Plans for the projected building were published last summer.

City commissioners rejected the first offer because it was felt the new building should be started in less than six years. Agreements for sale of city property all carry commitments to build within no more than one year.

SECOND OFFER

The second offer is for $60,000, payable $30,00 cash and balance at $800 per month with interest at four per cent. The property would be remodelled and used for the same purpose at at persent for four years. Before or at expiration of that time, the present building would be dismantled and a new five-storey building erected, committee was told.

Harvie and Yanda asked also that in view of the "quite a bit of money" which would be spent in [illegible] by the city for 1950.

VALUE DOWN?

"Is the price of real estate going down now?" asked Ald. Athelstan Bisset. He favored letting the city hold the property and take any risks in value fluctuation.

Commissioner John Hodgson said things are moving so quickly in the city that the property should not be tied up for even the four-year maximum period.

With not a single dissenting voice, the proposition was rejected.

Other conditions of the rejected new offer were that during the four-year period the present building would be remodelled to make it more attractive and more useful and that possession be subject to rights of the present three tenants, now occupying it on a month-to-month basis.

Ground floor area now used for passage to public library would be left open [illegible] when the projected new structure was erected.

GORDON MAY TURN SOD

While no definite arrangements have been made, it is anticipated that Donald Gordon, president of the CNR, will be in Edmonton to turn the first sod when construction starts on addition to the Macdonald hotel, according to Don McKay, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Membership Campaign

Objective is 1,500 members, an increase of 350 over present membership.

The drive will be supported by publicity and promotion campaigns, and will conclude Feb. 28.

CHAIRMAN

The membership campaign is headed by J. A. Christiansen with a supporting committee of 10.

MEN WITHOUT MANNERS

Thieves Enjoy Snack But Leave Dirty Cups

No manners were displayed by cool and efficient thieves last night when they visited the isolated home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper of 10149 Clifton Place.

Besides getting away with $10 and a gold nugget tie clip, the thieves went to the refrigerator and helped themselves to two apples and three cups of jelly.

The jelly cups were found empty on the kitchen table by Mrs. Cooper when she returned — and they were unwashed.

IF WAR COMES

City Seen Target For First Bomb

In the event of a third world war, the first hydrogen bomb would logically fall on Edmonton, Rev. E. Bisere told a group of 150 Edmonton teen-agers last night.

At a meeting in Sacred Heart hall, sponsored by the Social Action Centre, the Catholic priest told his listeners they must prepare to go underground if necessary to defeat Communism

"Canada and the U.S. alone stand in the way of the USSR's plans for world domination," the priest said. "At present, one-third of the human race is under Communist rule

GREATEST TEST

"Are we ready for the greatest test of our lives?" he asked.

"There are only two alternatives facing Christians, and particularly Catholics in our day to be martyrs or traitors,' said Father Bisere.

Turning to the morals of the 20th century, the priest switched target from the Communists to the capitalists.

He criticized 'big business' for employing sex to advertise and sell its products. Magazines and manufacturers of women's clothes came in for special criticism.

"The real issue means fighting the powers with money and no one is willing to fight those powers," he said

"That's why we, the little people, have to start the fight which should be started by our leaders, who refuse to do so."

The first baseball organization in the United States was formed in New York 1846 and called itself the Knickerbocker Baseball Club.

Cutty Sark Club Dance Program

Dance will be held by Edmonton Watch of Cutty Sark Club in the Maple Leaf [illegible] Saturday evening.

Plans for the dance get-together were made at a regular club watch meeting in Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' club last night, with President Allan Young presiding.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Shopping Spree Plans All Set for July 1

By Bea Thrifty

Today it's several hip-hip-and-hurrays for Douglas Abbott!

Our Canada money-man yesterday announced that most emergency import controls now in effect will be removed . . . and all by July 1, too.

So our merchandisers won't have to hand out the old excuse . . . "sorry ma'am . . . we just haven't been able to get that for you . . . the dollar restrictions, you know."

I can think of all kinds of things I'd love to buy the very minute they re-appear on local shelves.

Of course there are the major appliances to think of. With more automatic refrigerators entering the buy-and-sell scene the law of supply and demand will eventually cause a yielding in the high price range.

Maybe we won't have to pay $350 for a $2[illegible] appliance.

Builders may go ahead with housing plans . . . without the threat of plumbing-fixtures heading absentee lists.

M[illegible] more gems of the ovenware glass will strike our markets. Now we may look forward to that [illegible] colored set of oblong baking dish and ramekins-to-match. This has been featured in American magazines for simply ages . . . [illegible] us with its bright practicality.

* * *

Textiles will run in with increasing ease.

My special hope revolves around that simply delightful heavy homespun that caught my eye at Victoria last summer. Made into bright tablecloths . . . place mats . . . draperies . . . it's an inexpensive answer to a homemaker's yen for color and durability.

* * *

American cottons smartened up the scale in a commendable way this past year or two,. will delight us with their original patterns and finishes.

But the influx won't in any way mar the popularity of our own Canadian ever-improving textiles.

* * *

And when the sweet words about dried fruits fell from the good man's ruby lips . . . I cried out in delight.

Sweet-talk means we'll be able to enjoy dried apricots again . . . and other dehydrated fruits we could use nicely to augment our daily fare.

I have that apricot desert delight all planned . . . let me see . . . it has a lemon-tangy base, rich with whipping cream and the ever-luscious goodness of apricots . . . m-m-m-m-m . . . I can hardly wait!

* * *

Then electrical mixers, washers, ironers, juice extractors . . . and even garbage disposal units will [illegible] . . . and our buying.

Whoop-da-do . . . how that budget will take a beating.

So save now me hearties . . . save every thin dime, every tarnished copper, every coke-machine-abused nickel.

Your buying day will come.

Lead The Bottom Of 3-Card Suit

By William E. McKenney

I [illegible] the play from Mrs. Augusta Cantor of New York. In her letter she said she had recently changed her style on opening leads of three-card suits. She used to lead the six spot, if she had three small, say the 6-5-2. Then she would play the five and her partner would have to guess whether she held the deuce. But now she leads the low card if she [illegible] though she does not hold an honor.

[illegible] the play of the hand. Sitting West, [illegible] partner won the trick with the ten spot. Her partner then cashed the king of diamonds.

When Mrs. Cantor played the [illegible] knew that she was out of diamonds. South had been careful to play the seven and then the eight of diamonds, concealing the deuce. East safely cashed the high diamond and led the fourth diamond.

Declarer ruffed high shutting out Mrs. Cantor's ten-spot. There was no way now that declarer could play the hand to keep from losing a club trick.

Mrs. Cantor said the hand provides the following lesson: No 1—Lead the top of a two-card suit, but lead the bottom of a three-card or longer suit. No 2—[illegible] a lead open your short suit when you are short in trump, but lead a long suit when long in trump.

Mrs. Cantor further stated that many players might make the normal lead of the ten of clubs in this hand, but if so, the hand could not be defeated. She followed lesson number 2: being short in trump she led the short suit.

EYEBROW STYLING—Actress Janis Carter points out the attractive results of careful eyebrow grooming. Josephine Lowman gives you some rules to follow as given to her by an expert make-up artist.

WHY GROW OLD

Eye-Make-Up Moves To Fore This Year

By Josephine Lowman

I feel that eye make-up and eyebrow styling have been overlooked and that it is a shame to apply lipstick in the way many women do, when it can make such a great difference in the way one looks.

Here are tips about your eyebrows:

1. You should be able to draw a straight line from the inside corner of your eyes to the inside end of your brows. You can judge this by placing the end of a pencil at the inside corner of your eye, holding the pencil straight up. If your brows show on the inside of the pencil or do not meet it, then you should use the tweezers more or less.

2. Take a pencil and place one end at the corner of your nose, letting the pencil pass the outer edge of your eye. Your brow should end at the spot where the pencil cuts across.

3. Never tweeze above the browline unless you are taking out stray hairs which surround the true browline.

4. It will make your nose look larger if you have brows which extend too far in, toward the center, or which curvedown at that point.

5. (With the large nose in mind) —Keep rouge away from the nose which is too big.

6. This one was interesting to me: "Even if a woman has coal black hair, she should use a brown eyebrow pencil first in playing up her brows and then go over the brow with a black eyebrow pencil. This will look much more natural! Beware of a tatooed look. The strokes of the eyebrow pencil should be light as a feather."

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 50 about make-up, send a three cent stamped, self addressed envelope with your request for "What's Going On?" Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS

If Girl Marries Wastrel Parents are Victims

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19 and my father and mother have been very good to me and at great sacrifire to themselves are sending me to college.

I am in love with a boy whom my parents object to because he gets drunk and because he has no job and no way of making a living.

I have told my mother that I am going to marry this boy instead of going back to college. Don't you think that if I want to marry this boy I have every right in the world to do so?

HOPEFUL

ANSWER: Well, if you can be hopeful of being married to a drunken boy who can't support you, you are certainly the world's greatest optimist.

THROWS AWAY CHANCES

Don't be a little fool and throw away all your chances of happiness in life just because you imagine you are in love. You have a chance of a good education and to make something of yourself and eventually to marry a man you can be proud of. Make the most of that chance.

Have enough pride not to throw yourself away on a boy who isn't fit to marry any girl. No man has a right to ask a girl to marry him unless he has some way of supporting her and her children.

As for your saying that you have every right in the world to marry whom you please without regard to your parents' opinion, that is absurd. It isn't your affair exclusively. It is your parents' affair as much as it is yours, because they are the ones who will have to pay the price of your mistake if you make one.

You know well enough that their affection for you will not let them deal with you as you deserve if you defy them. They can't let you starve. They can't let you sleep in a doorway. It is the parents who are the victims when their children make unhappy marriages

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Punishment Depends On Child's Personality

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Child training would be much easier if there were fixed rules for parents which worked equally well for all children. Then parents could be told to do thus and so and the results would be the same for all.

But we know enough about human nature to know that the same rules do not work for all children; nor is it possible for all parents to do the same things in the same way. The wrong attitudes will nullify the influence of the right acts.

In the matter of punishment, which looms high on any parental program; some children have a high tolerance for punishment. They are neither very much upset by it, nor made antagonistic toward their parents. These parents would be justified in saying that a "good spanking hurt no one." But they would ignore the fact that there are children to whom a good spanking would be anathema and who would be crushed and humiliated and hate their parents for giving it. They would not, with such emotions, be impelled to future good behavior.

Taking those facts into consideration one can say with conviction that more children are harmed than helped by spankings. More children grow in grace and happiness when their parents treat them gently and affectionately and show them a constant example of right conduct.

In fact, a parent's conscience is her best guide to good conduct. She should examine her own motives when she punishes her children. She should ask herself: Will this behavior shatter the child's belief in my love? If she honestly thinks it will not, then no matter what she does, the child will not be harmed.

Our leaflet No. 74 "Undesirable Punishments," may be had by sending a self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Mission Work, Hardship Discussed at Convention

Rigors of mission life were unfolded yesterday as Miss Anne Copithorne addressed WMS Presbyterial of United Church convention. She spoke on her work in a leper colony in Angola, West Africa.

Meeting took place at Metropolitan United Church.

Ten years of struggling against ignorance, disease and superstition among these West African natives gives Miss Copithorne a great deal of discussion material. She stressed the need for more doctors, nurses, money and supplies in her mission and others across the world.

Mrs. J. C. Nattress was soloist during the afternoon.

Mrs. A. E. Cook presented WMS resolutions to the meeting.

Friendship Club Membership Cut Until More Space

Board of directors of the club met last night and the decision was announced that no further memberships will be accepted to the club until further notice.

Project has been such a success, said instigator Helen Kent today, that facilities available just won't cover the problem. Not enough room, chairs, dishes are available to handle the crowds of oldsters numbering at 270 last meeting.

Board members urge community leagues to adopt the idea of building a district branch of the Friendship Club. Those interested are asked to call Helen Kent at CFRN or Mrs. D. D. Paterson, 11338-123 street, phone: 84965.

in the KITCHEN...

By Jane Scott

After a splurge of January-February clearance-sale buying there's more than one budget trimmed down to the very marrow.

And with Mom's need to cut corners here 'n there . . . is the ever-present appetite-appeal which must be considered.

Now you and I . . . and every homemaker worth her best barbecue salt . . . know a satisfying down-to-earth meaty stew is an answer that happily solves the problems.

Because here's our chance to use those less-tender cuts of meat like chuck, round or plate that slow moist cooking makes pork-tender. Subtle seasonings lend flavor and distinction. Try a little bay leaf, allspice or marjoram . . . even a flick of basil . . . to make it a taste-tempter.

FLAVOURFUL BEEF STEW

Yield: 6 servings

- 3 pounds beef, chuck, bottom round or shoulder arm
- ⅓ cup flour
- ⅓ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup shortening
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 to 3 cups water
- 4 to 5 medium potatoes
- 8 small onions
- 1 package frozen peas
- Baking Powder Biscuit dough

Cut beef into 2-inch cubes. Place flour, salt and pepper in paper bag. Add pieces of beef and shake to coat the meat thorouhgly. Melt shortening in a heavy skillet and brown meat slowly. Remove meat from the skillet and place in a casserole.

Thicken drippings in the skillet with 3 tablespoons flour. Add water a little at a time and stir until smooth.

Pour over meat, cover and cook in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) for one hour. Add onions and potatoes which have been pared, and cook an additional thiry minutes or until the vegetables are nearly done. Then combine peas with stew and top with rounds of baking powder biscuit dough.

• • •

Here's a tip you may be able to use. If you're busy all day, stew is one dish that takes kindly to day-before preparation. In fact, it gains in flavor after 24 hours when the rich meat and fragrant seasonings have a chance to become better acquainted.

Of course, the cooked meat is always kept refrigerated until ready to use. Next day, add desired vegetables to the meat and heat just long enough to make them tender.

DUDE RANCH MULLIGAN

(Meat Balls With Vegetables)

(Serves 6)

- 1 bunch celery (about 2 pounds)
- 1 bunch carrots
- Bit of parsley
- 1½ pounds ground beef
- 2 teaspoons salt
- Pepper
- ½ cup catsup
- 1 onion, minced fine
- ½ cup dry bread crumbs
- 2 teaspoons flour or 1 teaspoon cornstrach
- 2 tablespoons butter of fortified margarine
- 2 bouillon cubes.

Wash celery and trim off top leaves. Without breaking the stalks apart, cut each bunch through center into 6 pieces.

Scrape or pare carrots, cut in half lengthwise and place with celery and parsley in Dutch oven or other heavy kettle.

Mix meat with seasonings, crumbs and flour or cornstarch. Shape into two dozen balls. Roll in flour and brown in butter in skillet. Place browned meat over vegetables.

Bring 2 cups water to boil in skillet; all bouillon cubes and stir to dissolve.

We've all been happy as clams to see pork products heading the abundant list..and even happier to see its prices tumbling to a more reasonable level.

It seems almost a sin to include the new low-priced pork in a great many of our weekly menus.

Even high-priced bacon has slipped a notch or three. And was there ever a soul that didn't swell with joy at the sight of a pot of home-baked beans, rich with molasses and flavorsome with good bacon?

I'm all for trying them again this Saturday..well maybe I'll start them Friday for Saturday luncheon. But if you are a homemaker-career woman and have to do your cooking at double-time..here's a quickie that will satisfy your hunger for home-style beans 'n bacon:

BROWNED BAKED BEANS WITH BACON

(Serves 4)

- 2 cans beans
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 4 slices bacon
- Catsup
- Brown sugar.

HEARTY MAIN dish beef stew is answer to homemaker's budget and appetite-appeal problems. Slow, moist cooking tenderizes inexpensive meat cuts.

Top beans with brown sugar to a depth of about ¼-inch. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Uncover and bake another 20 minutes.

You know, we homemakers kind of have fun when we're doing our level best to get the most value out of our food dollars..don't we?

I always find planning menue in advance is a step in the right direction. This way leftovers don't waste...your marketing is simplified...and you may take advantage of seasonally abundant food.

HAM WITH SUGARED YAMS

Boil 6 medium golden yam sweet potatoes in their skins. Peel and trim. Melt ½ cup butter or fortified margarine in a heavy pan or skillet and gently brown over a low flame. Turn frequently and sprinkle thoroughly with fine white sugar. Remove to absorbent paper and sprinkle again.

Drain canned pineapple rings and brown lightly in skillet. Arrange yams and pineapple around broiled ham steak.

Pour small amount of pineapple juice into the skillet, heat for an instant, and pour quickly over ham and yams. Serve at once.

TASTY TONGUE CAKES

- 2 cups cooked tongue (tip and thick end)
- 1 large potato
- 1 medium onion
- 1 clove garlic
- ¼ teaspoon sugar
- 1 egg
- Salt and pepper
- Flour
- Tomato sauce.

Boil the potato, peel and mash very well. Put meat and onion through the food chopper, using fine blade.

Mince garlic fine, then crush and mix thoroughly with meat, potato, sugar and egg. Season with salt and pepper. Then form into cakes and dust lightly on both sides with flour.

Melt shortening in a skillet and brown cakes very well on both sides. Serve these nice, big tasty cakes with tomato sauce (heated if you like) to 4.

• • •

BEEF ON THE HALF SHELL

- 1½ cups cooked beef
- 2 bouillon cubes
- 2 cups boiling water
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 3-oz. can mushrooms
- ½ cup chopped celery
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash cayenne
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 slice bread crumbled.

Start your oven at 400F or moderately hot. Cut beef in small chunks; dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water.

Melt butter or margarine in skillet, take off stove and stir in flour until smooth and bubbly, stirring constantly.

Take off stove and add all other ingredients, except bread. Pour into oiled casserole (medium size) or shells. Mix up bread crumbs with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle over the top. Bake 15 minutes. Plenty for 4.

• • •

HEARTY SAUSAGE TRIANGLES

- 5 medium potatoes
- Few sprigs parsley
- 3 knackwursts or ¾ lb. bologna
- 1 small onion
- 3 eggs
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- Dry bread crumbs
- 4 tablespoons shortening, butter or margarine.

Boil up your potatoes and then peel. Next, chop up the parsley nice and fine. Put potatoes, knackwurst (or bologna) and onion through the food chopper, using the medium blade. Then mix in the eggs, parsley, salt and pepper. Mix together very well, then shape into triangle or rolls. Roll in the dry bread crumbs. Heat your fat (shortening, butter or margarine) in a heavy pan, then fry the sausage mixture until nicely browned all over. This makes 6 big triangles or rolls that are simply wonderful.

TASTY BREADS are a Swedish specialty and Mrs. Magnus Pearson has recipes for two family favorites. She uses Swedish knurled rolling pin.

Swedish Bread Fills Favorite Recipe Bill

Swedish smorgasbords have become a popular entertainer-type form of feast . . . and for good reason. Swedish-Canadians like Mrs. Magnus Pearson cook such delectable goodies in true national style that everyone is tempted to try them.

Favorite of Mrs. Pearson's family is a "Knackerbrod" . . . or Swedish hard bread.

Mrs. Pearson spent yesterday afternoon making a batch of the delicious bread . . . and she gave me this recipe for a quickie-batch of six cakes of "Knackebrod."

- 3 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 cup natural bran
- ½ cup shortening and butter (mixed half and half)
- 1¼ cups milk

Mix ingredients, ad milk gradually and knead dough during mixing.

Roll into very thin discs about 12 inches in diameter "and be sure to use a Swedish 'knurled' rolling-pin . . ." cautioned Mrs. Pearson

SALAD-MATE

Now there's another famous Swedish bread that's a favorite with everyone . . . and especially me. I teased Mrs. Pearson into giving it to me and here it is:

Skororpor . . . or "Rusks"

- 1 qt scalded milk
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 eggs
- 1 small teaspoon cardiman seed
- 2 packages of fast-rising yeast
- . . . enough flour for soft dough

Mix according to bread method and let rise until double its size. Then push dough down . . . kneading lightly . . . and let rise again.

Bake into loaves at a moderately hot temperature. Now . . . cut into slices . . . then one-inch strips and place in oven again until throughly dry and browned.

CALL IT Treason

By George Howe

Synopsis: Happy, a young idealistic German soldier, is spying for the American army. The Gestapo has included his name in the Blacklist which is circulated throughout Germany and always referred to by sentries. The Soldbuch issued to Happy by the 7th army is no longer of any use to him. He is about to cross the bridge over the Rhine when a German soldier cries, "Spot-check. Papers out, everybody." There is no way of escape. Now go on with the story—

CHAPTER NINETEEN

They reached into their pockets, the men in uniform for the Soldbuch, the reservists for the piece of cardboard which was all the Wehrmacht had time to issue nowadays, giving their name and age and the words "Is a member of the German Army," followed by a signature and a seal. Everyone was used to showing papers, even the youngest boy recruit. The squad did not break step, did not even look down from the jagged silhouette of the burning city ahead. Happy forced his gaze away from the destruction down to the floor of the bridge.

Through a crack in the planking underfoot he saw the olive-brown water rushing northward, and the icicles clinging like beards to the under side of the trusses. A yard below the surface he saw the black belly and ugly horns of an underwater mine, with the cable ready for detonation from the shore like the charges under the planking of the bridge itself. The steel grillage of the side rails was too close-knit for a man to escape by jumping through. He was in a cage which contracted with each stride that squad slogged on toward the waiting Gestapo at the western span.

The reservist called for halt and left face. They brought their rifles smartly down to the deck of the bridge. Just beyond the barrier, in the Ludwigshafen Square, seethed the crowd of refugees waiting for the wooden gate to rise.

Shells Falling One a Minute

There was even an ancient streetcar crowded with anxious passengers, who leaned out the windows to see why we were delayed.

The shells were only a minute apart now. At each impact a groan rose from the crowd and the sea of heads turned backwards in unison to watch the burst, then quickly away again, and the compaction of humanity pressed even more closely against the bar.

Two soldiers with a striped HMG stood on a platform straddling the steel fence between the railroad tracks and the highway. The perforated cooling jacket of the gun circled over the crowd. Between two such threats, the shelling behind and the machine gun ahead, only a German crowd would have maintained the discipline to stand without stampeding.

Out of the camouflaged sentrybox stepped a storm trooper and a second lieutenant of the SS, with the double lightning bolt on their helmets and collars. They carried sidearms; in the lieutenant's hand was a copy of the orange Blacklist. If he could have dropped his Soldbuch into the river between the cracks of the planking without being seen, he would have done so. Then he could have claimed he had lost his book in combat. They might jail a man for using his book, but they could not shoot him here at the very front. But, the open planking had given way to solid concrete at the final span. There was not a chink in the surface beneath his feet, and the bridge was too wide to throw the book over the rail.

Lieutenant Methodical

The lieutenant took his station at a high slant-topped desk with a rack of rubber stamps fastened to the back shelf. He laid the Blacklist on the surface, beside his left elbow, with the orange cover on top. The check started at the rear of the line instead of the front; Happy would be the last. Each soldier held out his book.

The storm trooper compared the picture in the front with the face of the soldier himself, nodded and carried the book, with the travel [illegible] he called [illegible] It was just like the check at Ulm.

The lieutenant was methodical; he had pasted a tab at the page where each letter of the alphabet began. He opened the Blacklist at the [illegible] When [illegible] the soldier [illegible] ed the book, and stamped the trav- [illegible] stamp from the rack.

Lucky Break For Happy

When the reservist in front of Happy received his papers, he [illegible] Soldbuch [illegible] In the [illegible] swept [illegible] the Rhine and [illegible] were Hitler's. He was German, but he lie on his papers was Hiler's.

The lieutenant had his left hand on the cover of the orange Blacklist. He held the "Forwarded" stamp in the other.

"Karl Steinberg, Medical Corporal!" called the trooper.

"Medical, did you say? He's needed at the barracks. I'll take Corporal Steinberg back with me. He will not need his rifle; give it to the squad leader."

The lieutenant's finger had been on the S tab, but he did not open the Blacklist. He slammed it into the desk drawer. He shoved Happy's papers into his breast pocket. He glanced at his wristwatch.

"Not quite five," he said quietly to the trooper, "but today you may open the barrier a little earlier, without checking those who wish to cross to Mannheim."

Needed on Defence of City

Between the ends of the two tapered bars there was just enough width for the streetcar. The ancient vehicle stood with its single eye unlighted, abreast of and between the bars. Ducking under them the lieutenant led Happy to the forward platform, where passengers were forbidden to ride.

The flood of humanity and animals broke forward to the safety of ruined Mannheim. The motorman stood on the pedal of his gong to clear his path. He turned the lever a full circle to sprint ahead of the stumbling, laden refugees.

Happ was straddling the edge of the platform, with one foot on the running board and his hands on the stanchions. The lieutenant looked straight over his head.

"Medical Corps," he murmered "What unit did your book say?"

"Assigned to 136th Mountain, Herr Oberstrumfuhrer. I am to join them at Neustadt tomorrow."

"We made a strategic withdrawal from Neustadt last night," said the lieutenant heavily. "I cannot tell you where you might find them tomorrow. Anyway, you will be more useful in the field hospital than hunting for them. I shall check your papers when we reach the hospital and return them later, if you should be able to join the 136th Mountain."

"But Herr Obersturmfuhrer, tomorrow is my last day."

"Don't worry; I shall be responsible. I will notify your commander that you are necessary here for the defense of the city."

At the end of the bridge the streetcar swung to the left; on the bend Happy clung tightly to the stanchions. Then it curved right again along the Schlossgartendamm between the two halves of the castle park, through which he had marched in the opposite direction only an hour ago.

Decision And Action

Happy had watched the route of the car tracks on his march out. When the streetcar cleared the park it would swing around to the front of the Schloss, then turn straight down Frederick Street. It would cross the Frederick Bridge over the Neckar, on which he had entered, and then the lieutenant would order him out and walk him a few blocks to the right into the hospital gates. Then the lieutenant or an idle clerk or a patriotic nurse would find his name in the Black list. Beyond that he would not think.

The lieutenant chose a gold-tipped Regi from his cigarette case. He drew a lighter from his breast pocket. He turned his back to Happy, sheltering the flame against the motorman's shoulder to protect it from the draft of the open door where Happy stood.

At the moment when the lighter, ablaze, touched the tip of the cigarette, Happy took both hands from the stanchions and pushed the lieutenant against the right arm of the motorman. He sprang from the running board out into the cover of the park toward a dark clump of spruce behind the north wall of the gutted castle. He ran as a [illegible] horse would run, not seeing the ground below him. He veered into the deepest and longest shadow. A shot split the bough of a plane tree above his head.

His arms pumped at his sides. Behind the verge of the clump he knelt on the ground. He heard the lieutenant's decision above the frightened silence.

"Well, he can't get away. We can pick him up any time. He is unarmed."

Alberta Bright Spot In Employment List

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—A slight drop in industrial employment during November in all parts of Canada except the Maritimes and Alberta was reported today by the Bureau of Statistics.

Figures gathered in a survey of 20,798 employers show that at the beginning of December the number of Canadians working in industry was .5 per cent below the figure at the beginning of the previous month. It was 2.8 per cent below Dec. 1, 1948.

AVERAGE WAGE $43.82

Weekly earnings showed little change. The Canadian industrial worker earned an average of $43.82 at Dec. 1 compared with $43.80 a week at Nov. 1 and $42.23 a year earlier.

The survey, based on information supplied by employers with more than 15 workers each, shows an improvement in the Maritimes in industrial employment, hardly any change in Alberta, and a decline in Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Windsor, Ont., had the highest per capita weekly salary rate of $50.76 followed by St. Catherines, Ont., with $49.25.

Other cities included in the survey had these average weekly earnings: Montreal $42.99; Quebec City $36.38; Toronto $45.00; Ottawa $38.39; Hamilton $47.94; Winnipeg $40.22; Vancouver $44.66; Halifax $34.84; Fort William-Port Arthur $41.66; Regina $38.37; Saskatoon $39.02; Calgary $42.89; Edmonton $41.63 and Victoria, B.C., $43.06.

Newfoundland is not yet included in the survey. Among the other nine provinces British Columbia had the highest weekly average of $46.94 followed by Alberta with $45.96; Ontario $45.40, Manitoba $43.76, Saskatchewan $42.79, Quebec $41.8[illegible], Nova Scotia $37.76, New Brunswick $37.62 and Prince Edward Island $33.62.

Exclusive to The Bulletin

PRINCE RUPERT, Feb. 9—(BUP)—Joe Decleco, 78-year-old hermit, wore shoes today for the first time in 35 years.

He was in his coffin.

Police said the bewhiskered handyman who died Tuesday had gone barefoot except when the weather was "really bad." Then he had tied paper on his feet.

Attlee Warns Of Tory Move

LONDON, Feb. 9—(UP)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee warned a Midlands audience today to beware of "wild accusations" the Conservatives may make in the closing days of the Feb. 23 general election campaign.

Attlee, now pushing through the hinterlands on a 1,000-mile automobile grass roots tour, told an audience in the town hall at West Bromwich that he had no intention of engaging in a "slanging match" with Conservative party leader Winston Churchill.

LEVELS CHARGE

"The issues we face are important and they should not be settled by mere heat of temper," Attless said. "They should be settled by solid argument and by hard thinking."

The prime minister accused the Conservatives of making "wild accusations of extravagance and wanton waste," and added.

"The thing you want to beware of are things put out on the last day or last days. I don't think it will come off this time, because we have a more thinking electorate than we have ever had in this country."

Attlee received a tremendous ovation when he appeared. The audience greeted him with a chorus of the "Red Flag," the Labor party song.

Drew Warns Federal Gov't

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 9—(BUP)—Progressive - Conservative chief George Drew has served notice his party will open an all-out attack on the federal government over the national unemployment issue.

The Tory leader told the Western Ontario Association meeting yesterday his party would demand a full account of the acute unemployment situation across the country.

Total assets of Canadian chartered banks grew from $78,000,000 in 1867 to $7,353,248,764 in 1945.

Winter Road Built For North's Freight

THE PAS, Man., Feb. 9.—(CP)—Hardy bushmen hacked their way through muskeg, bush and snow today in the construction of a 350-mile winter freighting road that will run straight as an arrow across the northern section of the province.

Heading the compact road gang is Gregory Lamb of The Pas, son of Tom Lamb, muskrat rancher, bush pilot, trader and fishing operator. The eight-man crew will be on the job until about April 10, about the time for heavy tractors operating on ice.

SPLIT COST 3 WAYS

When completed—and government high officials decline to forecast when that might be—the road will link The Pas with Island Lake on the eastern side of the province near the Ontario border. It will pass through the settlement of Norway House at the head of lake Winnipeg.

A large [illegible] to clear the way. Since the muskeg is frozen, the big blade is able to cut through [illegible].

The road is a joint project of the Federal Indians Affairs Department and the provincial and federal governments. In Winnipeg, George Collins, deputy provincial minister of highways, said that [illegible] ment of a [illegible].

Big Northern Lake Stolen by Sly One

Long ago, Flat-Tail, the beaver, lived by a big northern lake. The water was cool and deep, which was just what he wanted. He was very happy and content to live in his snug lodge by the lake forever.

Also in this northern land lived Sly One the raven. He was a very jealous person and was very angry because Flat-Tail was so happy. One day, Sly One disguised himself as a poor ragged old man, and walked to the shore of the lake where Flat-Tail lived. The beaver took pity when Sly One begged for food, and invited him to stay at his lodge.

NOT THANKFUL

Sly One took advantage of the offer and lived in the lodge for many days. He never thanked Flat-Tall for the food, and was never grateful for the hospitality. He ate so much that Flat-Tail discovered the food was almost gone. Early the next morning the beaver set out in search of more food, and warned Sly One to keep the campfire burning.

Soon after Flat-Tall left, the raven thought no more of the fire, but hurried to the edge of the lake. He pecked and pecked at the shore line with his strong bill until he made a small hole. He grasped the small opening in the rim of the water, and rolled the whole lake up like a blanket. When he had gathered it into a bundle, Sly One flew away, very pleased with his evil work.

FLAT-TAIL RETURNS

By this time Flat-Tail had gathered his food and had begun his journey back. As he came near the thick woods that fringed his northern home he saw Sly One, the raven, sitting on the limb of a cedar tree holding the rolled-up lake in his beak. Flat-Tall sobbed and begged Sly One to return his precious lake. Frantically he dashed to the tree and tried to cut it down with his big teeth.

Other animals heard his cries and ran to help. The wolves dug at the roots of the tree, scattering the earth with their sharp claws. Bears tried to climb the tree, and growled and snarled at the raven, who sat calmly watching the whole affair.

SLY ONE ESCAPES

Every time a tree was ready to fall, or one of the bears goth within striking distance, Sly One darted away, stopping at another tree. However the lake began to get heavy in his beak, and when all the big trees had fallen he had to fly over the land. He found that the lake was so heavy, that he could not fly without spilling some of it on the ground.

As he flew from tree to tree more water spilled, running down into the valleys and making big winding rivers. At last the bundle became so light the raven flew across the Great Waters and was never seen again. The two great valleys that Sly One crossed were now large rivers and when the Indians came, they named them the Stikene and the Skeen.

And ever since that time the wolf still claws at the roots of trees, bears climb the branches and the poor beaver gnaws the trunk, hoping that Sly One will fall from the tree with the precious lake.

Sincerely,

Joan Walker

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Story

Uncle Butter, that jolly old goat gentleman, was up early in the morning. He was putting his fur coat and a bathing suit in a bag when Aunt Lettie, his wife, saw him.

"Where are you going, Pat Butter?" she asked.

"I am going to the South Pole with Uncle Wiggily in his new sky auto, my dear," answered the goat.

"But why are you taking both a fur coat and a bathing suit?"

"Because, my dear, Wiggy says it's warm at the South Pole, so I will need my bathing suit. But Buster and the Lady Mouse Teacher of Hollow Tree School say it is as cold at the South Pole as it is at the North Pole. In that case, I'll need a fur coat."

"I think you are right to get ready for both sorts of weather," [illegible] Aunt Lettie.

"Now I must prance over to the hollow stump bungalow. Wiggy said he wanted to start early. I'll see you when I come back, my dear."

"And don't eat all the Swiss cheese," warned Uncle Butter. "Try to sell some of it, even if it is full of holes."

"I'll do my best, dear," answered the goat lady. Then she kissed Uncle Butter good-bye. He shook his horns, wobbled his chin whiskers and twiddled his small tail and soon he was at Uncle Wiggily's bungalow.

"Couldn't help it, Wiggy. I had to tell Aunt Lettie how to take care of my grocery store while I'm on this trip to the South Pole. I brought a fur coat and a bathing suit."

"So did I," said Uncle Wiggily. "We'll soon find out who's right about the weather at the South Pole — me or Miss Mouse."

Up rose the auto. The propeller whizzed around and Uncle Wiggily's newest invention went sailing through the air. The sun was shining brightly. But, suddenly, it began to snow.

"Buster was right!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "It's really cold at the South Pole. We must be there by now, Pat."

"That was a fast trip," said the goat. My! It surely is cold! I'm going to put on my warm fur coat."

"I'll do the same," said Uncle Wiggily and he did. They rode on further. The snow stopped. The sun came out. The air was warm.

"Ha! I'm right!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "It's getting very hot. Let's put on our bathing suits, Pat! We must be at the hot South Pole!"

The rabbit and the goat were getting ready to put on their bathing suits when, suddenly, Buster crowded from beneath the back seat of the sedan. The rabbit scout looked down and shouted!

"You aren't at the South Pole, [illegible]! You're over New England where it rains and snows and is hot and cold all in the same day.

Big Northern Army Drive Draws Near

WHITEHORSE, Feb. 9—One minute past midnight on Monday will be Zero Hour—D Day for 5,000 Canadian and American troops stationed in the Yukon for Exercise Sweetbriar, the largest military manoeuvres ever conducted in Canada.

An "Aggressor Force" has theoretically overrun Fairbanks, Alaska, and seized the airstrip at Northway, close to the Alaska-Yukon boundary. Men of the American and Canadian armies and the RCAF swing into action next week in an attempt to drive them out.

A total of 1,428 Canadian troops, both active and reserve, and 800 men of the RCAF will participate.

Paratroopers of the PPCLI will be key shock troops on the defending side.

Morale of the troops is reported high as they go through practice manoeuvres and take in the historic sights of history-steeped Whitehorse.

U.K. Plane Expert Says Reds Wanting

Soviet Hasn't Plane Able To Carry A-Bomb to U.S.

Exclusive to the Bulletin

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(BUP)—A top British airman said today in a new book on Soviet air strength that the Russians still lack a long-range plane capable of delivering their atomic bomb to either New York or Washington.

The airman, Wing Cmdr. Asher Lee, served in Royal Air Force intelligence during the war. He worked on an assessment of the strength and efficiency of foreign air forces. Some of his material was included in a book on the Luftwaffe published in 1946.

BOMBER FOR 1,000 MILES

Lee said that the Soviet Air Force as of now has a bomber capable of carrying an atomic bomb no more than 1,000 miles from base.

He identified the bomber as the TU-70, copied from several American B-29s forced down in Siberia while bombing Japan during the war.

Russia now is striving to build a six-engine long-range bomber to compete with the American B-36. The Soviet plane is only in the prototype stage, Lee said.

BUILD 40,000 A YEAR

Lee said the Russian aircraft industry, including factories in eastern Germany and the satellite nations, "enables it to produce between 40,000 and 50,000 planes a year and it is doing so."

HE WAS TIRED SO HE SLEPT—LONG SLEEP

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A Negro who said he was locked in a freight car for eight days and more than 2,000 miles after he got in it in Detroit, was liberated yesterday. John Lee Ford, 49, of Detroit, told police that he borrowed a worker's badge to enter the Ford plant grounds in Detroit Jan. 31 to see about a job. He said that while waiting he entered the box car and fell asleep, awaking to find himself sealed in and travelling.

B.C. Miners In Muddle

FERNIE, B.C., Feb. 9—(CP)—Coal miners don't like to have empty fuel bins in their homes.

It happened during the recent cold spell. Bins were empty, lanes snow-piled, and deliveries halted.

The miners threatened a work stoppage unless fuel-short homes got a new supply. They even arranged to have the city fire siren sounded to signal the start of a workless day.

Civic, union and company officials scrambled to avert a stoppage and a solution was found—the miners agreed to continue work if coal was dumped as near as possible to their homes.

But there was one hitch. The siren sounded a "no work" signal, but it was found to be unauthorized. There was another mad scramble to notify the workers that the siren-alarm was a phoney.

Iceland Now Member Of Council Of Europe

STRASBOURG, Feb. 9.—(Reuters)—Iceland is now officially a member of the Council of Europe, it was announced here yesterday. Council's secretary-general said he had received a telegram from Bjarni Benediktsson, Iceland's foreign minister, saying the parliament had approved Iceland's membership.

GESTAPO

Berlin Reds Again Enact Hitler Laws

BERLIN, Feb. 9. — (AP)—Eastern Germany last night rolled the calendar back to 1933, creating a new gestapo and drafting the young into a regimented organization resembling the old Hitler Youth.

The Volkskammer (People's Chamber) enacted both laws without a word of dissent. No one has voiced a "nay" in that hand-picked, non-elective body since it was set up last October as a parliament for the Communist republic in the Soviet zone.

The bill for a new ministry of state security to direct a secret political force with unlimited authority to arrest and imprison is modeled after Russia's own secret police, the MVD.

It may embrace a vast network of informers as in the days of Hitler's gestapo.

Henceforth, a boy or girl in the Soviet zone must be a member of the "Free German Youth" organization or will not be able to take part in sports, picnics, hikes, travels, certain school work and even in the choice of a profession.

Pub Pickets Look Forward To Reinforcements

CALGARY, Feb. 9—(CP)—More than 60 additional men will be serving on the picket lines of the Beverage Dispensers' Union, (AFL) Saturday, union officials said today.

The picket lines, which during the week have been manned by approximately 150 members of the union, will be reinforced Saturday by members of other unions. Officials said the only reason for the large number of pickets Saturday was that most local union members worked a 40-hour week and Saturday was the only day they could serve on the picket line.

Hotelmen had no comment on the strike today and would not say whether they were looking for non union beer waiters.

LONDON, — Breweries were unsettled today on the London stock Exchange but other sections spent another quiet day with trading at a minimum under the influence of the apposching election—just two weeks today.

British government stocks encountered scattered selling and there were widespread but small losses in industrials. Building issues were singled out for some selling and showed dullness.

West Terminus Still Undecided

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 9—(CP)—Location of Vancouver Island terminus of Trans-Canada highway should be decided "within three weeks," Works Minister E. C. Carson said today.

He would not recommend Tofino on the west coast as the terminus, he told the executive council of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island. Delegates from 16 Island centres attended.

They have long supported Tofino as the western end of the highway.

OIL

Imperial Wildcat Creates Much Interest

By C. V. Myers
Bulletin Oil Editor

Imperial Oil is abandoning two wells and starting two more. Surrounded with the most interest is the Skaro wildcat in the Redwater Simmons area. Skaro No. 1 is in the recently chosen lease block a few miles northeast of Simmons and straight east of the south end of the Redwater oil field.

Skaro is five miles due east of the productive quarter of the Ohio Oil ompany, most easterly production in the field. It is about three and a half miles southeast of the dry hole, Imperial Eldorena No. 1. It is located about hlaf way down the recently picked lease block almost at its eastern edge. It is in Lsd. 16, section 2, township 57, range 20 west 4th.

Imperial's second well is a new one at Woodbend. It is an offset to the producer No. 24, and also a north offset to the D-3 producer Anglo, Home C&E No. 5.

Imperial is abandoning its Pinedale No. 1, 50 miles northeast of Edmonton, six miles southeast of the abandoned Willingdon No. 2. Total depth is 4,591 feet.

No disposition of this rig has yet been announced.

The Willingdon rig is going to Skaro.

Slated for abandonment is Imperial Magloire No. 1, eight miles northeast of the Normandville discovery. At 7,770 feet the well is running radio active log. A new location for this rig is also to be expected shortly.

SALT WATER

At Waybrook, 30 miles north of Edmonton where Imperial struck gas a few days ago, a salt water rise was registered Wednesday at 3,582 to 3,507 feet.

AT REDWATER

At Redwater Imperial is starting No. 66, quarter of a mile east of the newly completed No. 65, in the central section of the Redwater field.

Imperial has brought in 17 Redwater wells since the first of the year, and the field total has risen to 317 wells.

AT LEDUC

Following the installation of a pump at General Petroleums-Leduc No. 2 on the west edge of the field, 61 barrels of oil were obtained Tuesday during a 14-hour pump test.

Prior to placing the well on pump, a total of 5,000 gallons of acid was applied

A quarter mile to the south, General Petroleums-Leduc No. 1 produced 41 barrels of oil during a one hour test Wednesday morning. The well is reported to be averaging in the neighborhood of 60 barrels daily following an application of 6,500 gallons of acid.

Both of the wells are producing from the D-2 zone and are on a quarter section farmout from Imperial Oil Ltd. Interest in the wells and land is divided three-quarters to General Pete and one-quarter to Superior Oils Ltd.

U.S. Expects Oil Surplus But Canada Needs More

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Oil, that precious, strategic wartime material is coming out of the ground these days faster than it can be used.

In this hitherto oil-hungry country it is coming out of Alberta lands in greater quantity that western Canada can consume and is reaching out by pipelines to find its place in eastern Canada.

Until the Leduc field was discovered near Edmonton three years ago, we didn't expect to have it. We have before us a growing Canadian market, and we hope the U.S. won't panic so much we can't make sensible arrangements.

Sensible arrangements would be either to supply our own Canadian needs or the equivalent. The equivalent might mean shipping some oil to western U.S., while American oil continued to come into the east.

There is a bill before the U.S. Congress to increase American tariff on oil imports from 10½ cents a barrel to $1.05, and there are further proposals of import quotas.

It is such things that make Canadians worry the most economic flow of our own oil may be upset. It probably is not too great a worry, because the official view of the U.S. so far as we can see it, is that North American oil development should be driven ahead as a defence measure. Accordingly it is unlikely the U.S. will do anything which would retard oil development in Canada.

$125 Million To Send Vets To University

OTTAWA, Feb. 9. — (CP) — Canada has invested $125,000,000 in state-financed university training for war veterans and the sum will reach $145,000,000 before the big program concludes.

Of 1,892 Canadian veterans trained along special lines in United States schools, 1,713 have returned to Canada to take up residence and go to work.

Veterans department indicated that the program is moving into the final stage. There still will be veterans going to college with federal cheques to help them. But the big hump is over.

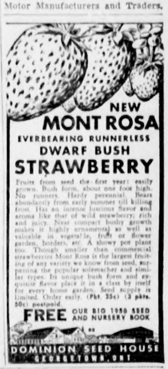
Of the amount already spent, about $80,000,000 has been paid directly to the veterans in living allowances while another $29,000,000 has been paid to the universities in regular fees.

Devaluation Speeds British Car Industry

LONDON, Feb. 9—(CP)—Britain's automotive exports still are on the increase to hard-currency areas and devaluation has given "a real impetus" to dollar sales. This was reported today by R. Gresham Cook, director of the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders.



NEW
EVERBEARING RUNNERLESS
STRAWBERRY
Fruits from seed the first year: easily grown. Bush form, about one foot high. No runners. Hardy perennial. Bears abundantly from early summer till killing frost. Has an intense luscious flavor and aroma like that of wild strawberry; rich and juicy. Neat compact bushy growth makes it highly ornamental as well as valuable in vegetable, fruit or flower garden, borders, etc. A showy pot plant too. Though smaller than commercial strawberries Mont Rosa is the largest fruiting of any variety we know from seed, surpassing the popular solemacher and similar types. Its unique bush form and exquisite flavor place it in a class by itself for every home garden. Seed supply is limited. Order early. (Pkt. 25c) (3 pkts. 50c) postpaid.
